POWER OF THE FAITH IS SERMON SUBJECT

REV. WILLMANN INTERPRETS ST. JOHN'S MESSAGE PREDICTING CHRISTIANITY'S TRIUMPH.

MUST FIGHT UNBELIEF

Opposition to Kingdom of God Ranges From Heathenism to the Worldly and Irreligious.

The power of God to overcome the world was emphasized by Rev. Henry Willmann, in his sermon, Sunday morning at the Trinity church. He spoke on the text, "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our Faith," taken from St. John. The Epistle of St. John, the speaker declared, was filled with love and tenderness, with a strong message of triumph.

"The word of St. John is of one who has looked upon our religion, seen Christ in the mighty conflicts, watched its growth, seen kingdoms of the world powerless before it, and noting all these, he sends out his voice in a cry of victory—a shout of triumph—there is no doubt, no uncertainty in St. John. His statements are assertions of truth, which cannot be doubted, and which fill us with joy.

"Whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world but that he believeth that Jesus is the son of God." And St. John answers, "That whosoever is born of God, sinneth not." We know that we are of God. We know that the son of God has come. Other texts from St. John with these are a voice that cometh to us with no loss of vigor all through these centuries that have passed. What then is the faith? When people use the word, faith, they mean the belief they and others have in things they have been taught as a part of their religion, or the belief in the goodness they have in God and the personal trust that they have in Him. It is used in this way as an expression of trust and confidence and is not a vain hope, but because of things you have heard or know about them.

"But that is not the meaning of faith as connected with this text. It means that faith once delivered to the Saints, it means the revelation of that is to say, things that Almighty God has told us about Himself, His will or His work for men. This faith God has revealed or uncovered in the Bible, the word of God, the prophets, whom He sent out to teach afterwards more fully by his son Jesus. The things that were revealed are gathered in the creeds of the church.

"We today have precisely the same faith St. John had, neither nothing more nor less has been revealed. It is this faith that today is still overcometh the world. What are the principal things in which we believe which are so strong as to conquer the world? First, the revelation of God Himself, and in the Godhead are three persons, Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost. The Son, the Father and the Holy Ghost, who came into this world and was made man by being born of the Virgin Mary. This is what is called incarnation and is the second great thing that faith teaches. The third great truth is about the Holy Ghost. We are taught that He comes to us from the Father and the Son, and that He takes each one when he is baptized and makes him a member of His church. This gives him forgiveness of sins and brings him into the Holy Catholic church.

"There are many other things which we believe in Jesus Christ, His life, His work, when He came into the world, and about the Holy Ghost and His work. But these three are the great things. If we believe them, we believe all the rest.

"There are two kingdoms, the Kingdom of God and the Kingdom of the world. The Kingdom of God, that is to establish the Kingdom of God. That kingdom is His church, to whom He gave faith that it might be preserved forever. What is not of this kingdom? The Kingdom of the world is to be overcometh. There are many things which we believe in Jesus Christ, His life, His work, when He came into the world, and about the Holy Ghost and His work. But these three are the great things. If we believe them, we believe all the rest.

the cross and must be prepared to suffer. Taking up the Cross gives victory over the world. The Cross makes a man independent of the world. The world says you must do this something not right or good, or you will suffer. The Cross says, be good to suffer; it is better to suffer than to do wrong. So the Cross makes a man independent. He does not care what the world says or thinks, he will do right, the world will be not all. He follows Christ and if the world suffers, be it so, he must follow Christ. His Faith has given him victory.

Faith, too, helps for it brings out spirit of prayer—God, a living God. He will help people talk with him and as they talk gives them strength. They tell Him their difficulties. He guides them and enables them to overcome. They learn more and more to face and overcome difficulties because they believe in God. It is the same with temptations. If tempted to unbelief the Christian recalls the Faith delivered to the Saints. If tempted to any kind of sin, he recalls the collection of the Faith which has been delivered to the Son of God became Man to make him a child of God, will keep him from it. He will not sin and lose his sonship of God. He will not let himself be overcome.

If he gets on slowly in spiritual life, and prayer is hard, and he does of God as he would wish, still the Faith is true; it does not depend on his feelings and so he overcomes temptation and gives up.

Quiet perseverance in the Christian life is not always easy. We want excitement or praise or some evidence that we are doing well and when these things do not come we are apt to feel discouraged. Then there will come the "Belief that God is true and that He has revealed Himself."

CONTEST IS HELD AT H. S. SATURDAY

Twenty-second Annual Medal Contest Is Held at High School Saturday Evening.

The twenty-second annual medal contests were held at the high school on Saturday evening. Eleven members of the school took part in it and all the talks were given with great success. DAUGHTERS OF ISABELLA HOLD INITIATION SUNDAY

Yesterday morning the members of the Daughters of Isabella, No. 112 of the class to be initiated, received Holy Communion in a body at St. Patrick's church. Initiation was held at 1:30 at the 25th St. church. The class initiated was one of the largest in the history of the order, and much credit is due the degree team who had charge of it.

The initiation all departed to the dining room, where a delicious supper was served. The committee in charge are certainly to be praised for the supper, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The past lecturer, was presented with a token in appreciation of the work done by her while holding that office. The presentation was made by Miss Mame Gosselin.

In well chosen words, Miss Bright thanked the order for the token. Two of the members, Mrs. Leonard, and Miss Adelaide Thiele, were called upon for speeches, and though short, were well given.

Despite the disagreeable weather, there was a large attendance, and all departed being well pleased in having added such a large number to the order.

ANNUAL EASTER PARISH SUPPER WILL BE GIVEN AT TRINITY CHURCH MAY 4

The annual Easter parish supper of the Trinity church will be given on Thursday evening, May fourth, at six-thirty o'clock. The members of the St. Margaret's guild of the church will serve the supper to the members of the parish, all of whom are expected to attend the event. Following the supper there will be a social hour, which will be in the nature of a get acquainted sociable. A novel feature in preparation for this part of the evening's program, will be a short musical program and informal talks on matters pertaining to the parish by various members of the vestry. A brief explanation of the church pension fund has been given to the members of the parish and opportunities will be given to gain further knowledge of the plan and the program already made. All members of the parish have the right to be present, and should send notice of their intentions.

THE BATTLE AT VERDUN
HAS BIG MORAL EFFECT
ON CITIZENS OF FRANCE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, May 1.—The battle of Verdun appears to have had a great moral effect in France. It has turned attention from the irritating discussions over details of the conduct of the war and has brought about a new revival of partisan spirit in parliament and in the press, which had been favored by relative stagnation at the front. Also it seems to have diminished the number of pessimists and hence increased French confidence in the final outcome.

"They have shot their bolt" is a frequent commentary heard in places where two months ago there were nervous complaints as to the prolongation of hostilities. "They can do no more than they have done, which is far from enough ever to shake the French army."

Shortly before the Germans attacked Verdun some radical and socialist papers attacked the priests, the clerics and the "easy" class, charging them with shrinking and cowardly and dangerous missions. No priest or artist or writer had ever been seen in a trench. They also accused them of aiding and abetting the Germans after having helped to bring on the war in the hope that a disaster to France would overthrow the republican or parliamentary regime. They accused them of sending money to Germany to subscribe to the German war loans. A witness keeper of the Department of war repeated these accusations to three years' imprisonment and was fined 1,000 francs.

The campaign against the priests and clerics was even taken up by a French newspaper, the "L'Humanite," in the leading radical newspaper of the South of France, the "Depeche de Toulouse," and drew upon himself a storm of protest. The battle of Verdun did far more to stop the campaign than the conviction of the witness keeper of the Lot and the protests against the articles of Monsieur Paul Adam. It has, perhaps, accomplished even more than the latter of the premier, Monsieur Briand, declaring that all ecclesiastics should be punished. Today all parties, including the socialists who have just renewed their declaration in favor of a war to the bitter end, are working in harmony.

MUNICIPALITY EFFICIENCY
EXPERT QUITS HIS JOB

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, May 1.—Henry Bruere, known throughout the country for his efficiency work in municipal government, walked out of his office as chamberlain of the city of New York and left a perfectly good $12,000 a year salary to go around because he said the job was a senseless waste of money and he could not keep up the pretense.

Bruere said the work he did could be handled easily by other city officials who haven't any too much to do. Bruere came from St. Charles, Mo. He originated the Dayton plan of city management as it is employed in that place, was at one time an executive of the International Harvester company in Chicago and more recently did social service work in Boston. He has not announced his plans for the future.

METHODISTS HOLDING
GENERAL CONFERENCE

Twenty-seventh Quadrennial Session
Opens Today at Saratoga Springs,
New York.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 1.—The twenty-seventh quadrennial session of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church convened today with an attendance of nearly eight hundred ministers and laymen.

Basis of Representation.

These delegates are elected on a basis of one ministerial delegate for every forty-five, or fraction not less than two-thirds of forty-five, ministerial members in any given annual conference, the number of lay delegates always being the same for each conference as its ministerial delegates. Laymen were first admitted to the general conference in 1872, and in 1900 women were acknowledged as lay members. These lay delegates are elected at a meeting of one representative from each local church in the annual conference territory. For the past twelve months, as the annual conference have met, delegates have been elected.

The first general conference of American Methodism was held in Baltimore, Maryland, in 1792, at which all preachers in full membership of the church were eligible. The first delegated general conference was held in New York City, May 1-22, 1812. At this conference the first Episcopal address, an utterance which has become of increasing importance, was delivered. This Episcopal address is now accepted as the official declaration of the church on important theological, administrative, and social problems. At the general conference held in New York City in 1844, the agitation over slave-holding became so acute as to result in plans for separation between that section of the church in the north and the section in the south. The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was organized in Louisville, Kentucky, May 1, 1845.

Establishment of Methodism.

Methodism began in America with the arrival of Philip Embury and Barbara Heck, Irish immigrants, who enthusiastically in the propagation of their faith. John Wesley, who was the founder of Methodism in England, remained at the head of American Methodism until the revolutionary war severed relationship between England and the United States. All of the preachers with the exception of Francis Asbury returned across the sea, whereupon, September 1, 1784, John Wesley ordained Dr. Thomas Coke to be superintendent or bishop of Methodist societies of the United States of America. There are now twenty bishops and seven missionary bishops serving the Methodist Episcopal church throughout the world. The former are elected by general conference and located for periods of four years each in cities which are designated Episcopal residences. The latter are elected by general conference for continuous service in specific fields.

The Methodist Episcopal church was organized at Baltimore, Maryland, at the so-called Christmas conference, December 24, 1784, to January 2, 1785. At that time there were 104 preachers and 18,000 communicants. There are now over 15,000 preachers and 4,033,123 members. In the early days of the Methodist church the salary of a clergyman was a small amount for his wife, received a similar amount for his wife, with $16 for each child under six and $22 for each child between six and eleven.

Matters Before Conference.

Among the important matters that will come before the general conference at Saratoga Springs are the question concerning organic union with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which has been under discussion with both of these important branches of Methodism for some time; the question whether the church shall elect bishops for races and languages; the election of bishops to take the place of those who have died during the last four years and those who will retire from active service automatically by reason of this session being nearly their seventy-third birthday; the election of editors for the church press, which includes the Methodist Review, the numerous weekly Christian Advocate, the Epworth Herald, and the Sunday school publications of the church; the election of corresponding secretaries for such boards as the Board of Foreign Missions, the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension, the Freedmen's Aid Society, the Board of Education, the Board of Sunday Schools, etc.; the election of publishing agents (administration heads) of The Methodist Book Concern, etc.

FRANCE WILL TAKE CARE OF HER OWN WAR ORPHANS

Paris, May 1.—"France is not going to export any of its war orphans," said Monsieur Alfred Croiset, head of the Faculty of Letters of the Sorbonne, explaining the participation of Americans in the work of the Orphan age of the Armies of which he is president. "I know a statement was published recently to the effect that 150,000 American families had offered to adopt orphans of the war. The number was a little exaggerated, and the word adoption used in its general sense was misleading. Orphans of the war so far as it is possible to remain in their families, especially when the mother is living. Where there are no immediate relatives to take care of them, they are to be placed in other French families and ultimately will be cared for by the State until their majority; none of them are available for adoption under the common acceptance of the term."

"Most of the Americans who have expressed the desire to participate in this work understand this point quite well; in fact in our correspondence the majority of the letters from the United States express the desire that the children which they agree to support should remain in their families. The supposition that there are 150,000 American families wanting to take care of orphans arose no doubt from the fact that we were asked by Americans as to about how many war orphans there were needing assistance, and we put the number at 150,000. This, of course, does not comprise all of the war orphans. They were estimated recently in a debate in the senate by Senator Jenouvrier at 800,000, which of course included half orphans, but a great proportion of these will never become the objects of charitable work and the exact number may never be precisely determined."

LOOKING IT BOTH WAYS.
At the beginning of his term Mr. Wilson proceeded to look the diplomatic service for the purpose of providing places for "deserving democrats," among whom the most deserving were found to be those who had contributed most generously to the end of his term. Mr. Wilson is again looking the diplomatic service for the purpose of providing useful and energetic politicians who will assist in carrying forward his campaign for reelection.

It is just now made known that Henry Morgenthau, ambassador at Constantinople, will resign his post to take up some very important work connected with the financial end of the president's campaign. Mr. Morgenthau is now in this country on leave of absence and a few weeks ago it was hinted that the exigencies of politics would prevent his return to Turkey. In the white heat of a fictitious indignation this rumor was denied. But the truth now appears—and Mr. Morgenthau will stay at home. The experience he has gained in Turkey will go for naught. Another "deserving democrat" will be sent to that troublesome area to learn the ropes at the expense of the American treasury and to the cost of American interests. But Mr. Wilson will have achieved the distinction of being the first president who has attempted to loot the diplomatic service both going and coming.

GOOD ROADS.
The good roads problem has two phases, the improvement of country roads, and traffic conditions in town, city, and village centers. The former is more important, as there can be no economical farm product distribution without good country roads. But with the modern motor truck grinding out the surface, the problem of the centers of town and village traffic is a perplexing one.

Motorists find the worst roads right in the thickly settled portions of cities and towns. Heavy motor trucks and fast running automobiles are making mischief. The trucks are economical and will be used more and more. They will draw their big loads from all the surrounding country. The town or small city that thinks it can afford small paying will pay some heavy repair bills.

The small village where costly paving seems out of the question, can't meet modern conditions with thin and sandy pavements. If it is maintaining a little business center that is a heap of mud and dust, it is disgusting even to visit. More money put into a solid paved rock surface would save many dribbles of taxation.

There are many quite small towns that are getting sick of these conditions, and see no economy in tearing up their central street sections every few years. They are trying out paving brick or wood blocks over small sections having most strain.

Such paving is the finest advertising. It spreads an impression of progress. A small town requires a city air when it gets a little better paved, and a cross roads village begins to look like a business center. Slight impressions draw trade, and when a town gives an impression of enterprise in this way, it is sure to draw trade from a long distance.

HAVE YOU STARTED?
If you have not yet made your start on the spring yard cleaning you should do so at once. Do not delay. There is an old adage that "delays are dangerous," and if you wait the fly now you will not have to swat his great-grand-great-grandson next July. Clean up all the unsightly rubbish and garbage piles and be prepared. We are all taking premeditated these days so be ready when the time comes yourself. Set a good example to your neighbor and see that the back yard and the side yard and the front yard and the back yard are all spick and span. This is the first of the clean-up days, so get busy.

JANESVILLE USER ALLES.
No matter what your nationality is adopt the slogan, "Janesville User Alles," and start boosting Janesville is going to have a Fourth celebration that will be some celebration. Janesville is going to have a fair week that is going to be some fair and Janesville is a mighty good city to live in and talk about. The soldiers of the Fatherland fight under the caption of "Germany User Alles." Why not adopt it and make it the slogan for our community that is going to go ahead and be one of the best cities in southern Wisconsin if everyone puts their shoulder to the wheel and starts boosting as they should.

AN IRISH JAMBEREE.
Evidently this mistaken and misguided invasion of Ireland just at this time by a force of Irish sympathizers working under the direction of the German government to make a diversion in their fight at home while they hammered the English in the Lowlands, has fallen through. That it was premature and ill-timed is most certain and an eastern exchange says that one test of the seriousness of the rioting in Dublin is its effect upon the price of the British government's Irish land loan. That effect has been negligible. And yet the loan represents an investment which would be worthless in the wildly improvable event of Irish independence, secured by force.

Perhaps when the shock of an incident which should have been no surprise to the British government has passed off, the British position may be all the stronger and clearer for it. When the Sinn Féin society was first started its principal object was to restore the Irish language. It was not a political body, but in recent years has fallen into the hands of agitators whose living depends upon the maintenance of a permanent quarrel with England.

At last these are to stand up and be counted, and it is a pity that our imitation Irish, the Jerry O'Learys and Emmetts and McGuligans, are not sent to the front to fight the English with something else than their mouths. The reason why such low-comedy rebellions have always been nipped in the bud hitherto, is that long experience has convinced the British government that the agitation was mostly talk; and that, as usual, plenty of informers would park murders, when actually every one of the prisoners subsequently executed offered to turn Queen's evidence to save his worthless neck.

Now that agitation has crystallized into its present form, to the great detriment of the cause of nationalism in Ireland, and everything that real Irishmen of the Redmond type have fought for, it is to be hoped that the British government will give the rebels their fill of fighting. To use an appropriate phrase, they were moulty for a beating. They should get it, as being the immediate business of the British government, which can afford to wait until the never-failing crop of informers discloses the real sources of the outbreak.

SHIPPING BILL AGAIN.
The insistence of the president that the House take up and pass promptly the McAdoo shipping bill seems likely to lead to an amount of friction between democrats and republicans far in excess of any that has occurred this session. The republican leaders insist that congress should proceed to pass the appropriation bills now and the president should take up the shipping bill and the Philippine bill after the regular supply bills, all of which it is important to pass before June 30th. Apparently there is little sentiment, even among the democrats, for these two administration measures, and the president fears that if he does not force them through now they will fail. The republicans, of course, regard them both as thoroughly pernicious measures.

JEFFERIS' CANDIDACY.
There is no question in the minds of republicans the state over that in suggesting the name of Malcolm G. Jeffris as a candidate for the nomination for United States senator the committee of a Hundred and Ten not only honored themselves and showed their wisdom by picking out a man who will carry the fight to the enemy, but also a man who if nominated and elected would be an honor to the state. He would be a republican before election and a republican for office and a democrat or something else after he obtained it. It was a wise selection.

One thing is certain, this country has more expert bowlers than crack riflemen. Some of the energy could be diverted to matters pertaining to national defense if needed and not to knocking down nine pins in an alley we might have hopes of perhaps establishing a line of rational defense in case of an emergency.

Traveling in Ireland just at present, particularly in Dublin, has a decided disadvantage just at the present time. It is unfortunate the present rebellion has come just at the present time for the sake of the Irish people who really hope for home rule in reality.

Villa is dead and buried, but just the same we may expect any time now to receive wedding cards announcing that the much-wedded Milan bandit has taken to himself a new wife. He would even rise from his "grave" for such an event if past activities in this direction are to be credited.

Two Facts.
While it is true that the love we give to others makes us happy, there is no denying the fact that the love we receive gives us a good deal of satisfaction.

BANISH SCROFULA
Hood's Sarsaparilla Cleanses the Blood, Skin Troubles Vanish. Scrofula eruptions on the face and body are both annoying and disfiguring. Many a complexion would be perfect if they were not present. This disease shows itself in other ways, as blemishes in the neck, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, wasting of the muscles, form of dyspepsia, and general debility. Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine completely eradicates scrofula. It purifies and enriches the blood, removes humors, and builds up the whole system. It embodies the careful training, experience, and skill of Mr. Hood, a pharmacist for fifty years, in its quality and power to cure. Scrofula is either inherited or acquired. Better be sure you are quite free from it. Get Hood's Sarsaparilla and begin taking it today.

"Oh, Frieda," cried Carrie Vandergrush, "let's get up an amateur opera for the benefit of the cousins of the East Bolivian orphans. Didn't the missionary's tale bring your friend last Sunday?"
"Like a towel!" shuddered Frieda Whirlpool.
And the two generous hearted society girls and their chums worked night and day for a month on an amateur production of "The Prince of Asturias" for the suffering consins of the East Bolivian orphans.
The orchestra bill was $450. Costumes came to $937. For lunches for the chorus $102 was expended.
The coaching bill was $378, and the man who trained the choruses got $456.
Extras and incidentals came to $267.
The house was sold; the performance was a huge success, and three months afterwards the hearts of the cousins of the East Bolivian orphans were made happy by the sight of three packs of gooseberries and a dozen and a half jam tarts.

But you just wait until That Dutchman Kizer Bill, Drives his cows to Dublin or Mayo He'll find Irishmen to spare Between Cork and Comby Clare Where the Shamrocks Between the Bogs are bound to grow.

On the Spur of the Moment
ROY K. MOULTON
The golden age for women, they in form us, is at hand. Though just exactly what it is, is hard to understand. We're given ample warning that the time is coming when They're going to dominate the fields They're getting into politics, and glory in the strife. They're cutting quite a figure in the realms of business life. Now this may be the stylish thing to do, but it may be said That after all is said and done, we like the home girl best.

The Home Girl.
Her bismonts may not be the best o'er made right on the start. Her pie crusts may together stick and may refuse to part. Her corned beef hash may taste just like a fluff rug in distress; Her soup may be enough to make a criminal confess. But still it makes a fellow glad wherever he may roam. To think that this old-fashioned girl Of course, you know, there's not a doubt that we like all the rest. But, getting squarely down to facts we like the home girl best.

The Hickeyville Clarion.
Am Hickey says there is anything on earth he would rather do than something else, it is to pose for a dentist for a set of teeth or a few lead fillings. He got into Doc Blinks' chair having' clear plum forgot about that baiky boss he let him have a trade four years ago, and what Doc did to him was a plenty. He sent out a set of burglar tools to yank Am's teeth with and said he was sorry but he was all out on chloroform and ether and laffin gas. Every time he thought of the baiky horse he hit Am an extra clip or so with the maul. He had to live on sour milk and mush until he got so weak he couldn't crawl up Doc's stairs any more to ask for the teeth. Finally Doc got a set from a nail order house and they didn't fit Am's face, but Am is wearin' 'em, although his mouth is around under his left ear and he can't shut it no how. His wife makes him put 'em in the chiny closet with the rest of the chiny every night.

How to Build a Bungalow.
The is probably nobody in this world who hasn't at some period in his career desired to own a bungalow. A bungalow is a long, low, flat-roofed house with a porch in front and an ash can behind. You get into it by going on your hands and knees and you crawl out backward, for there is generally no room inside to turn around without upsetting two or three dollars worth of furniture. The roof is so close to the floor that when you get into a bungalow you feel like a pine cone stuck in a ham sandwich. One way to build a bungalow is follow the advice of the magazines. According to them you can build a bungalow for any price from $4.50 up to $3,000.00, and you can go a little higher than the last named figure if you want to have plumbing in it. The magazine recipe for a $4.50 bungalow is about as follows:
Lumber ..... $1.01
Nails ..... .50
Paint ..... .75
Carpenter work ..... .71
Plastering ..... .95
Till work ..... .65
Heating ..... .29
Extras ..... .25
Total ..... $4.50
Of course, it can be done a little cheaper by leaving out the roof and anybody ought to be able to afford a bungalow at the figure named. We have a friend who is building one of the $4.50 variety after a magazine recipe. Up to date it has cost him only $3,796.53 and it is nearly half done.

A failure is usually a man who insists on regarding life as one long Saturday afternoon.
Social Life.
The art of conversation is said to be lost, but we don't miss it when the gossip is good.

OUTLOOK FAVORABLE IN BUSINESS WORLD SAYS BANK REPORT
Business Activity Continues Although Available Funds Are in Excess of Requirements.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago, May 1.—A report by the federal reserve bank for the seventh district, embracing all of Iowa, two-thirds of Illinois and Indiana (southern part of both states excepted) southern peninsula of Michigan and southern Wisconsin, gives the following summary of business with the next few months in the district:
"The business activity previously reported continues without evidence of strain on the financial structure. Banks' funds are in excess of requirements but there is more discrimination on the part of the paper-paying banks, with the smaller names paying a premium over the general minimum of three per cent, which has existed for some time. While there does not seem to be any lack of money in this district, some authorities are looking for a gradual rise in the next few months. Banks in agricultural communities find this a dull season as the farms are engaged in spring work and cannot give his attention to marketing operations."
Demand for Securities.
"The bond houses report a strong demand for high class municipal securities, and public service issues are being actively marketed and industrial bonds receiving some attention from investors. The present outlook for this line is satisfactory, with the demand frequently in excess of the supply."
Bankers, manufacturers and merchants are generally united in their favorable views on the business existing in the district, but some call attention to the danger from heavy purchases at high prices as such commitments are somewhat speculative, their successful termination depending upon unobtainable and uncontrollable external conditions.
"Clearings in Chicago for the first twenty days of April were $1,450,000,000, being $178,000,000 more than for the corresponding twenty days in April, 1915. Clearings reported by eighteen cities in the district outside of Chicago amounted to $220,000,000 for the first fifteen days of April, 1915, compared with $165,000,000 for the first fifteen days of April, 1915, and $225,000,000 for the first fifteen days of March, 1916. Deposits in the eight central reserve city member banks in Chicago were $65,000,000 on April 15, 1916, and loans were $14,000,000. The deposits show a decrease during the past month of $3,000,000, and the loans a decrease of $4,000,000.

Activity in Building Lines.
"Building activity in the district is quite active, particularly in the manufacturing centers, and this will probably continue as long as the underlying causes operate. Brick business is reported considerably greater than last year at the same season, with good prospects for the future.
"Unsettled conditions prevail in this line, owing to the demand caused by the supply accumulated in anticipation of the April first strike which did not materialize.
"Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo factories apparently are enjoying a satisfactory volume of business with some difficulty reported in connection with raw materials and railroad shipping facilities.
"Grain markets.—Crop prospects have had considerable effect upon the grain markets during the last thirty days, and scarcity of railroad equipment is reported to have been considerably with the handling of grain. Another factor in the situation is the prospect of an immense amount of Canadian wheat moving east on the opening of navigation in the Great Lakes.
Prospects for Crops.
"Crop prospects.—Cold weather delayed spring work in this section about two weeks but present reports indicate favorable prospects. The condition of fall wheat is unsatisfactory in many localities and this has resulted in some additional acreage of oats. Illinois reports considerable damage to winter wheat, although some improvement in the situation has been noted. Warm weather set in. Corn and oats are going into the plowed-up wheat land. Indiana is in a similar position and the decreased wheat prospects mean increased acreage for oats and corn. In Iowa fall grain suffered in some sections but the general condition of the soil is excellent and the spring planting of corn and oats is making good progress. A large acreage of oats than usual seems in prospect. Michigan looks forward to a good fruit crop and other crops are reported as satisfactory for this season. Wisconsin has an excellent outlook for winter wheat in certain localities, but all of the ground sown and some plowing under is probable, particularly in the southwestern part of the state.
Live Stock.—The packing industry reports an exceptionally strong foreign demand with an increased scarcity of bottoms for export. By-products, such as wool, hides, glue and fertilizer, are in excellent demand which would show that the manufacturers using these products are fully employed. Live stock prices are holding firm and the indications are that the supply of live stock throughout this district is not as good as usual. An interesting comment is to the effect that on a heavy soft corn have been figured to yield as high as $1 per bushel for the corn fed, based on present selling price of hogs and the increased weight per bushel of corn fed.
Lumber Demand Good.
"Lumber.—The improvement formerly reported seems to continue, and there has been a strong demand for all kinds of lumber. Lumber has firmed up the prices, with advances in values recorded in some of the products. Collections are not yet satisfactory but some improvement is noted.
"Liquor.—Tax payments for the fiscal year are said to be at the rate of $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 gallons, with a prospective production of 1916 of approximately $20,000,000. Prices are reported firmer and a number of distilleries are working capacity due to alcohol contracts. The situation with the breweries appears unchanged although there is some slight prospect of improvement.
"Wool and Woollens. The situation in the wool market is similar to last month, with prices held steady by raw materials. Supplies, however, are not excessive and the activity in this line is expected to bring about an increased demand within the next few months. Manufacturers are feeling the shortage of raw materials and dyestuffs without prospect for immediate relief. Collections are said to be good.

NORTHERN LIGHTS VISIBLE OF LATE
Brilliant Aurora Borealis Have Been Plainly Visible in Heavens During Last Two Nights.
Aurora Borealis or northern lights have been visible in all their splendor on the horizon for the last two nights. A silvery, white illumination, resembling an arc, rises from the southwest and stretches up and south into the southern skies.
That Aurora represents some form of electrical discharge and auroral lines arise from atmospheric gases is almost certain although there are many theories regarding them.
Spots on the sun, magnetic disturbances on the earth and Aurora are all intimately connected. When one is really we expect the other. In temperate latitudes a bright aurora visible over a large part of Europe and North America seems always accompanied by magnetic storm and earth currents. The largest magnetic storm and the most conspicuous auroral display have occurred simultaneously. It has also been noticed that years of many sun spots are years of many auroras, and years of few sun spots years of few auroras.
Ordinary Color of Aurora.
The ordinary color of auroras is white, usually a distinct yellow tint in the brighter forms, but silvery white when the light is faint. Red is not infrequently noticed toward the lower edge. Green is sometimes visible toward the zenith and violet has been noticed but is unusual.
This natural phenomenon occurs in many forms, some of great beauty, single or double arcs, bands in straight and regular outline, rays sometimes combined in series of fans, curtains or draperies, a form rare except in arctic regions and showing several conspicuous folds resembling frills on the lower edge, corona, patches looking like illuminated dispatched clouds and the diffused aurora with no definite outline.

Whether or not sound waves originate at the seat of such displays is a disputed question. If they do they seem fairly likely to be audible on the auroral arc, aurora comes very low and great stillness prevails. Arctic Indians and voyagers, who often pass their nights in the open say that sound is not uncommon and on one occasion

DOWNTOWN REST ROOM FUNDS TO BE GOTTEN IN WEEK'S CAMPAIGN

Women's Clubs Will Canvass Town for Funds for Project of Commendable Nature.

This week marks an epoch in the civic affairs of the city as an effort will be made to interest everyone in the Rest Room proposition. The downtown district has been divided and a committee of ladies will visit every merchant and business man to solicit contributions for the project. They feel that the experience of other places show that a good rest room is a distinct asset to the town. That people will come to trade in cities where they have good accommodations. Other nearby towns, Beloit, Watertown and Edgerton have rest rooms, which have proven of great value to not only the out of town visitors to the city but shoppers women with babies and small children, and others. The City Federation of Women's Clubs has taken up this matter, and five of the organization's branches have joined this movement, making the total number interested in the work to be about 365. There is room for more, as every lady ought to feel it her duty to contribute forward in every way possible. Individual women can join the federation, even if they do not belong to clubs. The yearly dues are 25 cents and names can be sent to the secretary, Mrs. Starr Atwood, Contributions of money, available furniture, or donations for a later date, are also solicited from clubs or individuals.

The committees who have this matter in charge wish to know what backing they have in the sentiment of the community. They are anxious to get the best service to the children of the city and surrounding towns. The officers of the city federation are: President, Mrs. S. M. Smith; Vice Presidents, Mrs. J. R. Nichols and Miss Hattie Alden; Secretary, Mrs. Starr Atwood and Treasurer, Mrs. H. D. Murdoch. These ladies will greatly appreciate a cordial reception of the committees who have this matter in charge. It is the first time in the history of the city when the club women have united on any public enterprise and they are very anxious to make it a great success. When this plan is at all established other civic work will be taken up as seems necessary and the city federation will in time become a power of good in the community.

GRIFFEN SENTENCED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Chief of Police Goes to Milwaukee to Take William Cushing into Custody—Speeder in Court.

Eddie Griffen, who was to have had a jury trial on Friday on the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, a knife, received a six months' sentence this morning when he pleaded guilty to the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. Through his attorney, John L. Fisher, Griffen admitted assaulting Frank Wausau, a railroad fireman, in the year of 1915, but denied that the attack was for the purpose of robbery or real criminal intention. Attorney Fisher stated that the whole trouble started over an old feud existing between Wausau and the Griffen family. He stated that some years ago a brother of Eddie Griffen, Thomas, had trouble with the complainant, Wausau, at Beloit, and in a fist encounter Wausau received a bad bruise. The district attorney, S. G. Dunwiddie, offered the amended complaint to the court, and this was accepted. Griffen was committed to the county jail for sixty days, and will be placed on work, his earnings to go to his mother.

Chief of Police P. D. Champion this morning went to Milwaukee to take into custody William Cushing, who is wanted here for a long time. Cushing was arrested in that city on Saturday on a Milwaukee warrant charging that he cashed a check in that city without funds in the bank. It is said he was charged from the Milwaukee complaint, but the Milwaukee officers ordered that he be held in Milwaukee until a warrant issued from the court here could be served on him. The charge made here is over an automobile which Cushing is said to have obtained from a Janesville woman to sell or trade in for a new machine. Conflicting accounts regarding the disposition of the machine and the failure of the payment of the bill for the car, is alleged to be the cause of the allegations.

George Anderson of Cambridge, Wisconsin, was fined ten dollars and costs when he pleaded guilty to speeding Sunday afternoon on Milton avenue. The fine was paid. The arresting officer, L. Cain, stated in court the young man was going over thirty miles an hour on the brick pavement at the upper end of the street.

OBITUARY.

Col. Andrew Davidson. Colonel Andrew Davidson of Duluth, Minn., who made Janesville his home for several years in his younger days, and who has many friends in this city, died at Rochester, Minn., on April 22d in the sixty-third year of his life. Mr. Davidson was the father of the American invasion into Canada, and was considered the greatest land dealer on the continent. He was closely associated with the Mackenzie and Mann enterprises and was president of various lumber companies and fisheries in Canada. He is survived by a widow and one grand-daughter.

Agust Muenchow. Funeral services were held for August Muenchow Sunday afternoon from two o'clock and later at the St. Paul's Lutheran church. Rev. E. A. L. Treu officiated. During the afternoon the flag at the Garfield school, where Mr. Muenchow had been employed for many years, was at half mast, and all the janitors of the public schools attended the services. At the church services the choir sang. The pallbearers were the five sons of the deceased, Mr. George W. Otto, Henry, Ernest, and Louis Hager. Among the out-of-town people who attended the funeral were Mrs. H. Winkler, Mrs. August Kregel, Mrs. J. Koehn, Mrs. A. Abbott, Mrs. F. E. Gierke, daughter, Mrs. Bohman, Mrs. Roger and R. Esle of Milwaukee, Charles Rehfeld of Lockport, Mr. and Mrs. William Rehfeld, Freeport; Mrs. Truesdale, Beloit, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hennrich, Rock. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

TIME LIMIT IS UP ON ANTI-POLE LAWS

City Cutting Holes for New Light Standards on South Main Street.

—New Pattern Being Made.

Today, according to the city ordinance passed a year ago, every telephone pole and power pole within the business district should be down. An inspection of the streets will show, however, that there are "several" poles standing on the main streets, and from which wires enter the city.

As they are as thick as they ever were, the violating companies can be subjected to a penalty for violation, for the council at the time placed the limit far enough ahead to allow a reasonable period in which to obey the legislation passed to rid the city of the pole menace.

Until the light standards for the ornamental system arrive and the city is ready to install them through the Janesville Electric company, no court action is anticipated to make the violating companies take down the remaining poles. When the new light standards are received and they are ready to be placed, then a different attitude may be taken by the city officers.

The citizens have expressed a demand that the poles come down, and since the ordinance is on the law books it is up to the city council to enforce it.

The work of cutting holes in the sidewalks where the new lights are to be placed has begun on Main street. These holes are made for the placing of the standard foundation and bolts.

The lights are to be set according to a schedule, the distance between posts to average a dozen or eight feet.

Members of the city council stated this morning that the contracting company for supplying of the posts had informed them that a new pattern had been made and the standards are now being constructed. The sample post that was sent to Janesville by the company some weeks ago was unsatisfactory, and the commissioners refused to accept as it did not come up to specifications. This meant that the company had to make a new pattern to eliminate faults with the posts, causing delay of the shipments. When received the posts will be painted here, as the officers desire to inspect the posts without paint on them.

False Alarm: The fire department received a telephone call this morning that a fire was coming from an occupied house owned by Richard Cullen, 323 North Academy street. No evidence of fire was found at the house when the department went to investigate.

COMMITTEE INSPECTS BELOIT'S PAVEMENTS

Meeting of South Franklin Street Property Owners to be Held Tomorrow Evening at City Hall.

A call has been issued for a meeting of all the property owners on South Franklin street for a public meeting to be held at the city hall assembly rooms Tuesday evening, to discuss what is to be done regarding the paving of this street. On Sunday Superintendent P. J. Goodman took a committee, consisting of J. J. Dulin, Edward McCue, Charles Curtis, William Lenart and James Kennan to Beloit via automobile to inspect the new pavement in Beloit of all types.

This was done to give the committee of property owners on South Franklin street a concrete idea regarding types of paving which have not only been laid here, but which are being considered "first hand" information.

It was obtained from the inspection and this committee will give its report tomorrow evening to the other property owners. Those who were in Beloit saw the various kinds of pavement under conditions that were best for examination. Wet weather, more than any other condition, shows the value of defects of all kinds of pavements.

If there are any faults they are certain to be visible in weather conditions such as yesterday.

George E. Heebink, Beloit city engineer, headed the party in the tour of Beloit. Various points were explained by him to the present which will be told tomorrow evening. A list of the Beloit prices was obtained to be presented at the meeting, but it was not considered that these prices were secured on immense paving contracts and would be materially lower than the contract prices on smaller jobs, such as are to be let in this city.

The committee appeared to be well pleased with the examination of the Beloit pavings as some of the best work in the west has been laid in Beloit during the last year. While the official report is not yet made, the committee of pushing pavement work so fast as is done by the council in Beloit, the commissioners of this city would like to see a limit schedule of pavings laid in Janesville.

COUNTY MINISTERS IN MEETING TODAY

Semi-annual Meeting of Rock County Ministers' Association is Held at "Y" Today.

Thirty members of the Rock County Ministers' association met at the Young Men's Christian Association today for their semi-annual meeting. President Daland of Milton college, who is president of the association, called the morning meeting to order and an interesting program which had been arranged was given. "Preparedness" was the subject for discussion and a number of the ministers gave addresses.

At noon an elaborate banquet was served at the Grand hotel and afterwards they adjourned to their afternoon meeting which was held at the Y. M. C. A. Election of officers for the coming year was also held at this time.

CLEAN-UP DAY MAY FIRST TO MAY THIRD.

CLEAN-UP PROCLAMATION.
To the Citizens of Janesville—Greeting:
In accordance with usage and good custom, I hereby designate Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 1, 2 and 3, as "Clean-Up and Fire Prevention Days." I would call the attention of our citizens and urge the necessity upon all our people to remove and dispose of all the winter's accumulation of ashes, tin cans, and other rubbish found in alleys and back yards; also all inflammable and combustible materials wherever found on their premises, whether it be in cellar entries, area-ways, basements, store-rooms, closets, or in and around barns, sheds, etc., etc.
Every citizen should feel it a duty and make an effort to clean up his property, both front and back yard, and paint the premises if necessary; in fact, to abolish all places that tend to breed flies, mosquitoes, and consequent contagion.
The above proclamation will become effective under the immediate supervision of Health Officer Dr. S. B. Buckmaster.
JAS. A. FATHERS, Mayor.

STOP Beating Your Rugs

Did you ever stop to realize that every time you take your rugs out and throw them over a clothes line or on the grass and beat them that you are really beating the life right out of them. Another thing, YOU DO NOT REALLY TAKE ALL THE DUST OUT THE RUGS. YOU may spend an hour or more pounding away on a rug, perhaps wearing most of the skin off your knuckles and then the rug will not be clean. The proper way is to use a good VACUUM SWEEPER such as our PERKINS No. 9. This machine takes the dust out in a very easy way. Simply run the Vacuum Sweeper over the rug and it draws all the dust out. It also lifts the rug at the same time because the powerful bellows create a strong suction which draws the air from BENEATH THE RUG, pulling out the fine dust which cannot be gotten out in any other way.

Let us send one of these on trial and if it does not do as we say, we will gladly take it back. Price $5.50.

What a Noted Authority On Public Health Says Regarding Garbage—

Garbage and the disposal of garbage is the worst problem in the home. Today the common practice is to put "leavings" and refuse in barrels or cans and then wait the pleasure of the garbage man who carts the decomposing and germ-laden matter to the river or dumping ground to breed its billions of flies and carry disease and filth back to our homes and families.

Surely any method that will do away with this practice should have the earnest consideration of every householder and homebuilder. ANY METHOD WILL FAIL AND FAIL UTTERLY WHICH DOES NOT ABSOLUTELY ELIMINATE THE PRIVATE GARBAGE CAN, PERMANENTLY DISCHARGE THE GARBAGE COLLECTOR AND WHOLLY AND COMPLETELY DESTROY WASTE MATTER WHERE IT ORIGINATES, ON THE SPOT, IN A SANITARY WAY.

The Garbage Man Must Go!

The garbage can must go —

GARBAGE must go!!

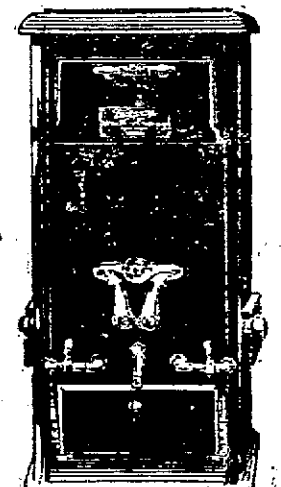

Every household can now burn its own garbage in the kitchen by using the inexpensive and proficient

The Incinerite fits beside the kitchen range. It uses gas for fuel. It is large enough to contain a whole day's accumulation of garbage, waste, rubbish and odds and ends.

You can put any kind of waste into the Incinerite—animal or vegetable, wet or dry—it makes no difference. The gases generated give such an intense heat that every scrap of garbage is utterly destroyed in a sanitary manner.

Let us send our expert to advise you as to what size Incinerite you should install in your house.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 52.

Food commissioners who preach the Gospel that "All is now well with our food supply" are forced in their commercial philosophy to ignore the extraordinary truths demonstrated by Sherman, Forbes, Hart, Maxwell, Stern, Zaddik, Leipsig, Rohman, Spert, Ehrstrom, Mottler, Sinclair, Volt, and hundreds of other benefactors of the human race referred to in these chapters, whose work has conclusively proved that on such a diet as the common people of America are now eating so heavily nothing but disorder can result.

The 4,000 laborers who, attempting to live on the most popular typical American food during the construction of the Madeira-Mamore Railway, were deprived, as we have learned, of the mineral elements necessary to normal metabolism. Let us see whether the Madeira-Mamore poison diet really bears any relationship to the average American food.

Henry C. Sherman of Columbia University declares: "Possibly because the quality of the views formerly held and still sometimes met (especially in fraudulent advertisements of proprietary foods) tended to bring the subject of nutrition into ridicule, the study of the phosphates, and other nutritive elements, has been generally neglected. Recently, however, the significance of phosphorus in the growth, development and functions of the organism is at last being adequately recognized."

Phosphorus was only one of the twelve mineral elements removed from the foodstuffs of the Madeira-Mamore poison squad. The investigations of the Ohio Experiment Stations, and Hart, Wisconsin Experiment Station, indicate that much of the mal-nutrition is not due to a low protein diet, but to a deficiency of phosphorus and calcium in the food supply.

Here are two of the mineral elements which have been specially studied in the diet of hogs, cows, and American homes. Let us look at the facts.

Phosphorus is found in the body as phosphorylated proteins called nucleoproteins existing in the cells and tissues. True phosphoproteins exist in cereals (wheat) and omelette (egg yolk). In brain and nerve substances, and also to some extent in other tissues, the phosphorus appears as phosphorylated fats called lecithins. Egg yolk is particularly rich in this form of phosphorus; it is the discarded germ of wheat, corn, rice and barley.

Less highly organized forms of phosphorus are utilized by the body as phytin compounds or phytates. Wheat, corn, rice, barley, oats, and buckwheat in their natural unrefined state, contain phosphorus in this form in abundant quantities.

In the fluids and soft solid tissues of the body phosphorus is found in an inorganic form as potassium phosphate. In the bone structure it is found as calcium phosphate.

Maxwell, in observing germinating seeds and developing chick embryos, found that in the construction of the body of the growing vegetable or animal organism, the phosphorylated phosphorus played a most important part.

Sternitz, Zaddik, and Leipsig discovered that these various phosphorus compounds could not be substituted one for the other. Synthetic phosphorus compounds do not make a substitute for phosphoproteins.

Rohman has shown that the phosphorylated proteins furnish the material for tissue growth.

Gumpert and Ehrstrom demonstrated that phosphorus equilibrium was maintained in experiments upon men when the phosphorus was consumed in the form of organic phosphorus, whereas when taken as calcium phosphate or as the potassium phosphate of meat, the same quantity of phosphorus would not serve the needs of the body.

Hart, in feeding hogs in experiments conducted in the Wisconsin experiment station, found that 1.12 grams of phosphorus per day in its various compounds was just about sufficient for the hogs until they attained a weight of about eighty-five pounds, after which 1.12 grams became clearly insufficient for the needs of the animal.

Sherman, commenting upon this fact, states: "1.12 grams of phosphorus would hardly seem a desirable amount for a growing child of the same size, or for a fully grown man or woman."

It was said, as we have seen, that the Madeira-Mamore laborers died of "beriberi," although the phosphorus had been removed from their food prior to their deaths. Let us repeat over and over again, for the sake of emphasis, that this is the same phosphorus which is removed from the diet of the American people in the refining of all their grains and breadstuffs, and that its removal represents but one of the twelve mineral elements which are also removed.

Sherman, Alexander, and Sinclair, through the office of experiment stations, United States Department of Agriculture, reported a comparison of the amount of phosphorus contained in the typical American diet with that of the Madeira-Mamore poison squad for their facts. They went right into the homes of the people and showed that a freely chosen diet of our typical denatured food products does furnish much more than 1.12 grams of phosphorus, estimated as 2.75 grams phosphorus pentoxide.

These investigations were carried out in a family in Pittsburg, a teacher's family in Indiana, a school superintendent's family in Chicago, a teacher's family in New York City, a student's club in Tennessee, a woman student in Ohio, a carpet layer's family in New York, a house decorator's family in Pittsburgh, a glass blower's family in Pittsburgh, two mill workers' families in Pittsburgh, a mechanic's family in Knoxville, Tenn., a lumber man in Maine, a farmer's family in Connecticut, a farmer's and mechanic's family in Tennessee, thirteen women students, five women students and one child in Knoxville, Tenn., two Negro farmers' families in Alabama.

The study continued fifty-eight days and took the average from 12,337 meals consumed by men and 798 meals consumed by women.

Speaking of these analyses Sherman declares, "The results indicate that present food habits lead to a deficiency of phosphorus compounds and it is not improbable that many cases of mal-nutrition are really due to an inadequate supply of phosphorus compounds." He was careful in his conclusions, but never hesitated to state the fact that the phosphorus from natural food, all the other mineral salts, colloids, and vitamins with which phosphorus is associated, are also automatically removed in the process, because cannot be removed without removing the others.

However, his experiments have clearly indicated that, notwithstanding the fact that in the typical American home many offending foods are consumed which were not available in the Madeira-Mamore poison squad, the mineral elements necessary to normal metabolism are nevertheless found to be deficient in the typical American meal. In the mean time certain food commissioners, writing for the newspapers, are striving to smother these grave truths and conceal them from the people known to themselves, from the common people.

DEATH RATE TAKES AN ALARMING JUMP

Prevalence of Pneumonia During First Quarter of 1916 Responsible for Increased Mortality.

Madison, Wis., May 1.—The Wisconsin death rate for the first quarter of 1916 was higher than has ever been recorded in the state during that season of the year since the adoption of the uniform registration law. If the same rate were continued throughout the year, the annual mortality would be in excess of 38,000 deaths as compared with a mortality of approximately 28,000 per year during the last seven year period.

"That this alarming increase is due almost entirely to the unusual prevalence of pneumonia, influenza and other complications of adult life or old age is proven by the comparison of age groups for the first quarters of 1915 and 1916," says the state board in its forthcoming quarterly bulletin. "The statistics show there is an actual decrease of eleven per cent in the number of deaths under one year of age, but an increase of 143 in the number of deaths among children from one to four years of age and an increase of 593 in the number of deaths among persons sixty-five years of age and over."

The tabulation of causes of death for all age groups for the first three months of 1916 shows that pneumonia, influenza and other complications of adult life or old age is proven by the comparison of age groups for the first quarters of 1915 and 1916," says the state board in its forthcoming quarterly bulletin. Hugh Conway returned home Sunday from a visit with relatives at Pittsburg, Penn., and Canton, Ohio.

George Moore of the Drovers Commission firm of Chicago was a caller at R. H. Howards on Friday.

WISCONSIN DOGS SENT TO ALASKA TO HERD REINDEER

Oshkosh, May 1.—Two pure white Scotch collie pups, a pair of thoroughbred dogs specially selected for their herding instincts, have just left Oshkosh for what is said to be the northernmost white man's habitation in America. The dogs are from the Island White Collie Kennels and are bound for Point Barrow, Alaska, where they will be used to herd reindeer belonging to the United States government. May 1st they are to leave on the steamer "Albatross" for the long sea trip north to the frozen Point Barrow, which is on the extreme northern tip of Alaska, about the middle of August. By that time the collies will be well grown and it is expected they will have become acclimated and hardened to the rigors of the new country, where the post is open only six weeks in the entire year. An elaborate supply of dog biscuits, medicines and disinfectants went along.

Thomas Gordon, a Scotchman, who went into the arctic when a boy of fifteen working on a whaling ship, is the man to whom the dogs are consigned. He is about forty-five years of age and has been engaged in whaling, trading and census taking among the Eskimos. He married to an Eskimo woman and has a large family of children. His residence is the farthest north of any white man's home in America. Mr. Gordon is in charge of a government project to propagate reindeer and required dogs to help herd the animals. He wrote of the need to a banker in Ohio, stating that this friend was the only person outside Alaska with whom he could claim acquaintance.

Only savage Lap dogs, useless for herding, lived in the region, Mr. Gordon declared. The pair he is to receive are registered with the American Kennel Club and their mothers were carefully selected as exceptional individuals in the care of cattle. Being pure white in color, a strain developed here from the ordinary collie it is expected they will have the benefit of being selected as exceptional individuals in the care of cattle. ## QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Answered by Alfred W. McCann.

Q. What foods are rich in calcium?

A. This question has been asked by many readers in this paper that in answering them all in the same place.

The easy reference we may divide foods most commonly in use into two groups. In the first group are foods rich in calcium. These foods are asparagus, string beans, lima beans, kidney beans, blackberries, milk, buttermilk, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, oranges, onions, parsnips, radishes, raspberries, rhubarb, rutabaga, spinach, strawberries, turnips, vegetable soup, lettuce, dandelion, almonds, apples, bananas, wheat, chestnuts, cocoa, coconuts, cranberries, daisies, eggplants, grape juice, lentils, cantalope, peanuts, pears, dried or fresh peas, fresh pineapple, plums, baked potatoes, raisins, natural brown rice, whole rye, shredded wheat, walnuts, watermelon.

In connection with the foods enumerated above it must be remembered that the calcium content is to a great extent lost by boiling and cooking, unless the waters in which the boiling and steaming are done are carefully saved and converted into soups and sauces.

Ordinarily the juice of vegetables is drained off into the waste pipe and is thus lost. The factory refining of foods, as far as calcium is concerned, is no worse than the home process.

In addition to the loss of calcium salts sustained there is also a serious loss of potassium, iron, and other salts, which pass over into the cooking water with the calcium salts.

The second group consists of foods that contain no calcium at all, or calcium in such insignificant traces that the chemist estimates them in the third decimal point. These foods are bacon, puffed barley, beef, corned beef, ribs of beef, forequarter, heart, beef juice, loin, plate, porterhouse steak, lean ribs, fat ribs, lean ramp, fat ramp, lean sides, sirloin, Vienna roast, white corn, green, degerminated corn meal, corn flakes, corn flour, cornstarch, soda crackers, water crackers, farina, cream of wheat, patent flour, goose, fat ham, lean ham, hawleyed ham, lamb, macaroni, spaghetti, orange, marmalade, biscuits, sugar, corn, syrup, corn cobs, sausage, pork tenderloin, rice flour, polished rice, bolagna, frankfurters, and all meat products.

The regular meals of this kind, if used, they should be accompanied by generous quantities of foods from the first group.

Children brought up on foods from the second group will not add any strength to the nation's plans for preparedness.

U. S. MAY NOT FOLLOW LAW IN GERMANY WHEN ALL CLOCKS PUT AN HOUR AHEAD

Washington, May 1.—Whether the example of the German government, which set all the clocks in the empire ahead one hour today, could be followed in this country to good advantage, is doubted.

It seems impossible that there can be harmony in time relations between nations when, as in the case of Germany, the action of the Bundesrath was primarily taken to conserve the nation's resources, two of which are lighting and fuel and both of which are admittedly growing more scarce.

After May 1, under the new time standard, the nation will be just one hour ahead of the world. While workers of other European nations and the United States are spending the hour between five and six, snoozing, those of Germany will be hard at work. At the close of their working day the Germans will have an extra hour for recreation.

Stop andri ff loss of hair with Resinol

Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment that will generally stop dandruff and scalp itching, and keep the hair thick, live and lustrous:

At night, spread the hair apart and rub a little Resinol Ointment into the scalp gently, with the tip of the finger. Repeat this until the whole scalp has been treated. Next morning, shampoo thoroughly with Resinol Soap and let water. Work the creamy Resinol lather well into the scalp. Rinse with gradually cooler water, the last water being cold. At druggists sell Resinol Soap and Ointment.

Miss Wilcox Finds Road To Happiness

Tells Story That all May Profit by Her Recent Experience.

If for any reason you doubt the efficacy of Tanlac, the new system builder and blood tonic, take a few minutes time and read the statement from the lips of Miss N. Wilcox, of 1135 Washington Avenue, Racine, Wisconsin. She says:—

"I was a victim to a variety of ills the combination of which caused me to become listless and run down and not fit for anything. I had catarrh and the constant dropping in my throat served to upset my stomach, give me a bad breath and cause me to feel nauseated in the mornings. Everything I ate would not rest well but would cause me acute distress soon afterwards. Gas would form almost immediately. I was troubled with constipation for nearly four years but every time I took any medicine for this trouble I would be laid up sick in bed for several days afterwards. Disordered kidneys caused me so much pain that I could hardly bear it at times."

"I first heard of Tanlac while visiting in Indiana some time ago and when the medicine was introduced here I got a bottle and started using it. I have only taken one bottle but can truthfully say that I feel like a different person. I have more energy and ambition and feel full of life and vigor all the time. I can retire at night and sleep without waking up four or five times. I am not nearly so nervous. My catarrh is relieved and I can eat anything without suffering. I have more interest in life and believe that I am on the road to complete recovery. I can recommend Tanlac to all because I know that it is an honest medicine and has much merit."

Tanlac may be obtained here at Smith's Drug Store.

This hope had pulled in two like a frayed cord. Massingale must pay the bank or lose all. Until he had obtained possession of the promissory notes there would be no crevice in which to drive any legal wedge. And even then, unless some pressure could be brought to bear upon the grafters to make them disgorge, there was no chance of Massingale's recovering more than his allotted two-thirds of the stock; in other words, he would still stand committed to the agreement by which he had bound himself to make the grafters a present, in fee simple, of one-third of his mine.

Brouillard had written one more letter to the lawyer. In it he had asked how David Massingale could be unsatisfactorily reinstated in his rights as the sole owner of the "Little Susan." The answer had come promptly and it was explicit. "Only by the repayment of such sums as had been actually expended in the reorganization and on the betterments—for the modernizing machinery and improvements—and the voluntary surrender by the other parties to the agreement, of the stock in dispute," the lawyer had written; and Brouillard had smiled at the thought of Cortwright voluntarily surrendering anything which was once well within the grasp of his pudge hands.

Failing to start the legal wedge, Brouillard had dipped—also without consulting Massingale—into the matter of land titles. The "Little Susan" was legally patented under the land laws, and Massingale's title, if the mine were located upon government land, was without a flaw. But on a former reclamation project Brouillard had been brought in contact with some of the curious title litigation growing out of the old Spanish grants; and in at least one instance he had seen a government patent invalidated thereby.

As a man in reasonably close touch with his superiors in Washington, the chief of construction knew that there was a Spanish grant involvement which had at one time threatened to at least delay the Niquola project. How it had been settled finally he did not know; but after the legal failure he had written to a man—a college classmate of his own—in the bureau of land statistics, asking for data which would enable him to locate exactly the Niquola-touching boundaries of the great Coronida grant. To this letter no reply had as yet been received. Brouillard had cause to know with what slowness a simple matter of information can ooze out of a department bureau. The letter—which, after all, might contain nothing helpful—lingered on the way, and the crisis, the turning point beyond which there could be no redemption in a revival of the speculative craze, had arrived.

Brouillard took up the draft of the Washington telegram and read it over. He was cooler now, and he saw that it was only as it came from the hand of a traitor, who could and would deliberately wreck the train of events it might set in motion, that it became a betrayal. Writing as the commanding officer in the field, he had restated the facts—facts doubtless well known in the department—the probability that the opposition was gaining by the suspension of the work on the dam. If the work could be pushed energetically and at once, there was a possibility that the opposition would become discouraged and voluntarily withdraw. Would the department place the men and the means instantly at his disposal?

"If I were the honest man I am supposed to be, that is precisely the message I ought to send," he mused reflectively. "It is only as the crooked devil in possession of me will drive me to nullify the effort and make it of no effect that it becomes a crime; that and the fact that I can never be sure that the Cortwright gang hasn't the inside track and will not win out in spite of all efforts. That is the touchstone of the whole degrading business. I am afraid Cortwright has the inside track. If I could only get a little clear-sighted daylight on the damnable tangle!"

CHAPTER XX Love's Crucible

Obedying a sudden impulse, Brouillard thrust the two copies of the telegram under the paper-weight again, sprang up, put on his hat, and left the building. A few minutes later he was on the porch of the stuccoed villa in the Quadrenal road and was saying gravely to the young woman who had been reading in the hammock: "You are staying too closely at home. Get your coat and hat and walk with me up to the 'Little Susan.' It will do you good."

The afternoon was waning and the sun, dipping to the horizon, hung like a huge golden ball over the yellow immensities of the distant Buckskin as they topped the final ascent in the steep trail and went to sit on the steps of the deserted home cabin at the mine.

For a time neither spoke, and the stillness of the air contributed something to the high-mountain silence, which was almost oppressive. Work had been stopped in the mine at the end of the previous week. Massingale declaring, morosely, that until he knew whose ore he was digging he would dig no more. Presumably there was a watchman, but if so he was invisible to the two on the cabin step, and the high viewpoint was theirs alone.

"How did you know that I have been wanting to come up here once more before everything is changed?" said the girl at length, patting the roughly-hewn log step as if it were a sentient thing to feel the caress.

"I didn't know it," Brouillard denied. "I only knew that I wanted to get out of Gomorrah for a little while, to come up here with you and get the reek of the pit out of my nostrils."

"I know," she rejoined, with the quick comprehension which never failed him. "It is good to be out of it to be up here where we can look down upon it and see it in its true perspective—as a mere little impertinent blot on the landscape. It's only that, after all, Victor. See how the great dam—your work—overshadows it."

"That is one of the things I hoped I might be able to see if I came here with you," he returned slowly. "But I can't get your point of view. Amy, I shall never be able to get it again."

"You did have it once," she asserted. "Or rather, you had a better one of your own. Has Gomorrah changed it?"

"No, not Gomorrah. I could shut the waste-gates and drown the place to-morrow for all that Mirapolis, or anything in it, means to me. But something has changed the point of view for me past mending, since that first day when we sat here together and looked down upon the beginning of the reclamation construction camp—before Gomorrah was ever thought of."

"I know," she said again. "But that dreadful city is responsible. It has robbed us all, Victor; but you more than any, I'm afraid."

"It is true. I have betrayed my trust. Cortwright will make good in all of his despicable schemes. Congress will intervene and the Niquola project will be abandoned."

"Tell me," she begged briefly; and, since he was staring fixedly at the scored slopes of Jack's mountain, he did not see that she caught her lip between her teeth to stop its trembling.

"As you know, I had a debt to pay before I could say: 'Come, little girl, let's go and get married.' So I became a stockholder in Cortwright's power company, knowing perfectly well when I consented that the hundred thousand dollars' worth of stock he gave me was a bribe—the price of my silence and noninterference with his greedy schemes."

"But you didn't mean to keep it; you knew you couldn't keep it!" she broke in; and now he did not need to look to know that her lips were trembling pitifully.

"I did keep it."

She dropped quickly on the step beside him and a sympathetic hand crept into his.

"You kept it until the unhappy day when you gave it to my father, and he—and he threw it away." She was crying softly, but his attempt to comfort her was almost mechanical.

"Don't cry about the money. It had the devil's thumb-prints on it, and he merely claimed his own and got it." Then he went on as one determined to leave nothing untold. "Cortwright had bought me, and I served him as only a man in my position could serve him. I became a promoter, a 'booster,' with the others. There have been times when a word from me would have pricked the bubble. I haven't said the word; I am not saying it now. If I should say it I'd lose at a single stroke all that I have been fighting for. And I am not a good loser, Amy."

For once the keen, apprehending perception failed.

"I don't understand," she said, speaking as if she were groping in thick darkness. "I mean I don't understand the motive that could—"

He turned to her in dumb astonishment.

"I thought I had been making it plain as I went along. You wanted something—you needed it—therefore it must be purchased for you. And the curious part of the besetment is that I have known all along that I was killing your love for me. If it wasn't quite dead before, it will die now—now that I have told you how I am fingering the last vestiges of uprightness and honor to the winds."

"But how?" she queried. "You haven't told me."

"With the dam completed before Congress could intervene, Mirapolis would, of course, be quite dead and ready for its funeral. But if the Cortwright people industriously insist that the spending of another million or two of government money is only another plum for the city and its merchants and industries, that notwithstanding the renewed activities, the work will still stop short of completion and the city will be saved by legislative enactment, the innocent sheep may be made to bleed again and the wolves will escape."

She shuddered and drew a little apart from him on the log step.

"But your part in this horrible plot, Victor?" she asked.

"It is as simple as it is despicable. In the first place, I am to set the situation before the department in such a light as to make it clearly a matter of public policy to take advantage of the present Mirapolis crisis by pushing the work vigorously to a conclusion.

After thus turning on the spot of plenty, I am expected to crowd the pay rolls and at the same time to hold back on the actual progress of the work. That is all—except that I am to keep my mouth shut."

"But you can't, you can't!" she cried. Then, in a passionate outburst: "If you should do such a thing as that, it wouldn't kill my love—I can't say that any more; but it would kill me—I shouldn't want to live!"

He looked around at her curiously, as if he were holding her at arm's length.

"Shall I do what you would have me do, Amy? Or shall I do what is best for you?" The opposing queries were as impersonal as the arm's-length gaze. "Perhaps I might be able to patch up the ideals and stand them on their feet again—and you would pay the penalty all your life in poverty and privation in hopes wrecked and ruined, and I with my hands tied. That is one horn of the dilemma, and the other is . . . let me tell you, Amy, it is worse than your worst fears. They will strip your father of the last thing he has on earth and bring him out in debt to them. There is one chance, and only one, so far as I can see. Let me go on as I have begun and I can pull him out."

Dinner Stories

Some time ago a Brooklyn cook announced to the mistress of the house her betrothal, adding that she might leave at any moment. The woman of the house was genuinely sorry, since the cook was a good one.

Months passed, however, without further word of leaving, although the happy man-to-be was a frequent caller in the kitchen. So the mistress was finally moved to ask:

"When are you going to be married, Mary?"

"Indeed, an' it's niver at all, I'm thinkin' mum," was the melancholy response.

"Really? What's the trouble?"

"Tis this, mum—I won't marry Pat when he's drunk, an' whin he's sober he won't marry me!"

Mr. Stretcher—Yes, it's cold, but nothing like what it was at Christmas three years ago when the steam from the engines froze hard and fell on the line in sheets. Mr. Coffer—

And yet that wasn't so cold as in '87 when it froze the electricity in the telephone wires and when the thaw came all the machines were talking as hard as they could for upward of five hours. Mr. Longbow—Well, gentlemen, the coldest year that I can remember was in the Christmas week in '84, when the very policemen had to run to keep themselves warm.

Editor—Did you tell that fellow that if he didn't advertise with us we would print an article denouncing his produce? Advertising Manager—Well, hardly that. I just told him that

In view of his singular attitude we standard of journalism we had set should have to be true to the high for ourselves.

ATHLETES OF CUBA GOOD AT BASEBALL

Many Diamond Players Make the Big League After Graduating From Island.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, May 1.—To those who have seen the Cuban young men and boys playing baseball upon their native diamonds is not at all surprising that some of these players should migrate to the United States and earn big money. The Cubans are generally taken to baseball almost as readily as the average boy in the United States and once he has graduated from the island, he can field and run the bases with the same skill shown by majority of those who play the game in this country. If he has one weakness it is inability to make long hits. This handicap is overcome to some extent by the speed with which the Cuban player goes down to first and from base to base.

More of these players are scattered through the professional leagues of the country than is generally thought to be the case by followers of baseball. Few of them have reached the point of proficiency where they are assured permanent places on the big circuits, but a number are playing fast baseball in the minor leagues and appear to be headed for the majors. A Cuban enthusiast recently compiled some statistics which show that sixteen of his young countrymen are playing in the various leagues under organized baseball and twice that number with well established and high class semi-professional teams. There are also several other players famed for their skill with bat and ball in Cuba, who are ready to try out in the states, and he gives as his opinion that the time is not far distant when the Cuban player will be a factor in the makeup of the big league clubs.

C&T Rowing Time.—Another case of "watch skipping" has developed in connection with college boat racing. In the mile and eighth dual regatta at Princeton on April 29, between the varsity eight of Harvard and Princeton, the time of the winning Princeton crew was announced as 9 m. 12 1/2 s. It was stated that this was a full minute short of the actual time of the race, which was rowed in the "dead" water of Carnegie Lake. This is in line with the timing at the intercollegiate four man championship race at Poughkeepsie last June, when the time of the winning Cornell crew was given as 26 m. 26 3/4 s., and later cut to 19 m. 26 3/4 s., and a minute lopped off the announced time of Stanford, Syracuse, and other teams.

Athletes in China.—Elaborate plans are being made throughout China for the holding of a series of athletic games this summer in connection with the Far Eastern Games scheduled to be held at Tokyo, Japan, during May, 1917. These meetings are open to the athletes of China, Japan, Korea, Siam, Szechwan, Philippines and other far eastern nations and colonies, have been the means of booming all forms of track and field athletics to an extent never dreamed of in the past.

Much of the credit for the advancement of athletic interest is due to the Y. M. C. A., which has fostered and encouraged all forms of competition for many years. Such interest was taken in the early athletic games that the association officials felt that this was the best means of reaching the upper classes of Chinese, and in 1908 brought together Chinese and American athletes and established athletic headquarters at Shanghai. The first athletic meeting was held at Peking in 1910. One of the most important meetings was held in May, 1912, at Peking, when the Chinese and Japanese athletes assembled there for the carnival games. This event gave rise to the organization of the Far Eastern Athletic association. The second Far Eastern games were held at Manila in May, 1915, were quite as successful as the Manila meeting. The third Far Eastern games will be held at Tokyo in May, 1917, and it is for this that the Chinese are now training.

MORRIS MILLER.

To teach horses English or groom and riders French—that is the quandary of the American race horse owner this season. Almost every big race this year will see one of the famous horses of England or France on the mark. Racers bred in France do not understand English. When the rider shouts "Whoa!" the French horse is likely to start in a livelier pace, and "Get up" he pokes no attention, for he is accustomed to "Allons!" This condition is causing chaos on race tracks and in stables. It is a French employé's problem not to be obtained because all possible material is in the trenches. So good horses from Paris may be beaten by slower mounts from Kentucky simply through an international misunderstanding.

During the twenty renewals of the famed C. C. of C. racing stake, which has been one of the features of the recent changes in the time of the stake and the allowance rules, will start back in the event, thereby breaking one record and if Joe proves the winner of the 1916 renewals, another record will go by the boards.

Portchester, N. Y., boasts the youngest girl bowler in the United States in Beatrice Sherwood, seven years of age. She almost daily appears on the alleys, taking part in matches with her father, three players—Peters, McGowan and Karl Adams and Outlander Good—and for each of these he paid the waiver price. He did not draft a man last fall and he obtained the right to sign Outlander Good recently for nothing. Moran picked up Chief Bender and George Chalmers when they were free agents. He traded Doolin to Cincinnati for Niehoff and let Robert go to the Giants in exchange for Stoeck, Deane and Jack Adams, a catcher. He obtained Whitford from the Braves, together with infielder Dugue, in a trade for Sherwood Magee. In other words the building up of the champions has broken up a game recently for nothing.

Since Pat Moran has been in charge of the Phillies he has purchased only three players—Peters, McGowan and Karl Adams and Outlander Good—and for each of these he paid the waiver price. He did not draft a man last fall and he obtained the right to sign Outlander Good recently for nothing. Moran picked up Chief Bender and George Chalmers when they were free agents. Opposing pitchers consider Ray Schalk of the White Sox one of the most dangerous hitters on that team. The little catcher is apt to get up in a pinch. He seems to be at his best whenever he is placed in a position where it probably means victory for his team if he can come through with a base hit and opposing pitchers take every precaution to give Schalk all they have in the way of deceptive deliveries.

There is a story printed in several of the Philadelphia papers that the Phillies may get rid of Cravath, but such statements should with a grain of salt. It is perhaps true that the Philadelphia management knows that it is only a question of time when the big fellow will begin to crack out a series of

PHILLIES' PITCHING STAFF LOOKS STRONG ENOUGH TO DEFEND THE NATIONAL LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP THIS YEAR

Grover Cleveland Alexander, the leading pitcher in the National League in 1915 and the mainstay of the Phillies in the box for several seasons past, will be back on the mound for Pat Moran's team this year. Reports to the effect that Alexander's arm was "gone" and there was a chance of his having to give it a rest this season were dispelled, when Alexander wrote from his home in St. Paul, Nebraska, a few days ago that he was in fine fettle.

With Alexander, Chalmers, Mayer, Demaree, McQuillan, Oeschger and Tincup, all right-handers who have been with the team; Rixey and Baumgartner, left-handers, and the two youngsters, Fortune and Rhodes, the Phillies' pitching staff looks plenty strong enough to defend the National League championship this year. Manager Moran has already declared that he will not bid for any of the Federal League stars, but there are one or two on the list of the Chicago Cubs whom Moran could use if they are placed on sale by Manager Tinker.

home runs. It is reported that Pat Moran intends to use Cooper, an outfielder, who was with the Brooklyn Fed club last season in Garry's place on the team. But this, if done, may only be a temporary shift for the purpose of letting Cravath take a rest until he regains his batting stride.

Charles Anshovitz, known to the world of pugilism as Charlie White, filed a petition in the Chicago circuit court a few days ago to change his name. He wants to be known by the name he uses in the ring, and has asked the court to legalize it. His petition states that he is 25 years old, was born in Liverpool, England, and has resided in Illinois for eighteen years.

ST. LOUIS DROP GAME TO SIX YESTERDAY 6 TO 2
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
St. Louis, Mo., May 1.—Hard hitting combined with errors, which came at opportune times, enabled Chicago to win from St. Louis here on Sunday, 6 to 2.

It was the locals' sixth straight defeat on the home grounds. Six errors were made by the St. Louis fielders, each of which figured in Chicago's run getting. Two singles, a walk and an out gave the locals their first run and a triple by Sister and Marsan's sacrifice fly netted them another in the fourth. After this they got only one man as far as third, and this in the ninth when Scott was touched for two singles and a pass.

SIXTH GRADERS DEFEATED ST. MARY'S SCHOOL PLAYERS
Friday afternoon an exciting ball game between the Sixth Grade team of the Jefferson school and the St. Mary's school players resulted in a victory for the Jefferson school ball tossers by a score of 24 to 7. Captain Aller and Leland Pratt were the cardinal players for the Jefferson school team and Crook and Sheridan did the work for the St. Mary's boys. Rening, Aller and Crichton scored home runs for the Jefferson team during the game.

Tiger Superstitions.
In India the people believe in very many old fairy tales. One of these is that the ghost of a man killed by a tiger rides on the head of the beast that slew him to warn him of danger and to guide him to new victims. It is declared that Providence provides for the tiger's daily wants to the amount of 1 rupee (2 shillings) a day—that is to say, if a tiger kills a calf worth 4 rupees he will not be allowed another victim for five days. Eating the flesh of a tiger is supposed to give one great courage and alertness, but the whisks must first be singed off the beast or his spirit will haunt the man who fed off him, and he is likely to be turned into a tiger in the next world.

Far Worse.

THE SWISS SYSTEM OF ARMY TRAINING

United States Could Learn Many Lessons From Inland Nation in Preparedness Campaign.

By William G. Shepherd.

Berne, May 1.—The men of Switzerland aren't soldiers in peace times. They are only citizens who know how to be soldiers if they have to. The United States doesn't need 4,000,000 soldiers. What it does need is 4,000,000 men who know how to be soldiers in case the need arises. "I had a boy in college," wrote the father of a young British soldier. "One day he ran off and enlisted in a London foot regiment. After three months' training his regiment was sent to Flanders. He was killed at Ypres. I am telling you this to help you preach the gospel of compulsory training, not conscription. I know how to be a soldier in case the need arises. I am a soldier and proud about my boy. I feel that his regiment did not have a sporting chance. They only knew how to go on and die. I feel that the men in England who oppose compulsory military training are guilty of a greater felony than those who sank the Lusitania."

This is the sort of feeling I find, this feeling expressed by this father, that brought about compulsory military training in Switzerland.

Here in Switzerland where, under the marvelous system of military training, a fifth of a million of the finest soldiers in Europe were placed on the frontiers of their country to guard them before the first shots at Liege had died down, you get it driven home into your American mind that compulsory military training isn't intended to create soldiers. Its purpose is to create a nation of fine, strong young men and hale, hearty old men who will know how to be soldiers if an enemy forces them to play that role.

The Swiss aren't fussy; they don't love fighting. All these years of learning how to be soldiers, if the need comes, has taught them that fighting is no picnic and that it doesn't pay to start a row just for the sake of rowing.

The Swiss are not a fighting nation, like the Serbs, for instance, and you may for man the Swiss army is the equal of any army in the world. Every citizen in the ev-fighting Balkans is a soldier, a potential soldier. That's the aim of the Swiss military training. But every citizen of Switzerland, because of his scientific training, is a citizen who'll be a soldier only when some enemy drives him to play that role.

That's the big reason Switzerland is at peace today.

It would cause an upheaval in the United States to put the Swiss military training in operation here. In fact we couldn't transplant it in its entirety.

There are some things about it that Americans wouldn't like.

WALWORTH POSTOFFICE ROBBED SATURDAY EVENING

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Walworth, May 1.—Robbers forced their way into the postoffice Saturday night at the rear entrance in the south, cutting out a triangle in the glass and succeeded in opening the door. It is understood about 20 was taken from the rural route, as the robbers were evidently frightened away before getting to the safe. N. D. Maxon gave the alarm by shouting "Burglary!" W. B. Gates, L. V. Phelps and W. V. Davis were called and succeeded in tracing them to Big Foot, where they lost track of them. It is deplorable that after a night's watchman. The Walworth Star says they were in a similar manner about a year ago.

THE SWISS SYSTEM OF ARMY TRAINING

United States Could Learn Many Lessons From Inland Nation in Preparedness Campaign.

By William G. Shepherd.

THE TOBACCO HABIT.

M. Mac Levy, recognized as an expert on health efficiency, is the author of an interesting book which has just been published.

"Tobacco Habit Easily Conquered" (Albion Society, 81 Lexington avenue, New York City, Price $1.25, net), is the content of this unique volume, which, far from being a sermonizing tirade or medical treatise against the "fragrant weed," is a readable, reasonable work carrying an unmistakable and convincing message of help and hope for those whose health has become impaired through the excessive use of it and who want to quit comfortably.

The author treats his subject in so straightforward and commonsensical a manner that his book is certain to make a wide appeal to the many who suffer as a result of over-addiction to tobacco.

Aside from the practical dictums which head the chapters, the chief note of the book is heralded in its preface which says in part: "This book teaches self-mastery and health regeneration by that much misunderstood, greatly maligned but supremely important personage—yourself."

It is clearly shown that recourse to drugs and the expenditure of valuable time are not at all necessary to him who would free himself of the habit and that it is to be overcome by a method agreeably easy if faithfully followed. It will remove all craving for tobacco in any form, and will accomplish improvement in one's general health.

There is no getting away from the logic that Prof. Mac Levy has so pleasantly set forth. The choice of food and drink, proper breathing, pleasant exercises, simple mental diversions and other precepts form the cardinal factors of his doctrine, but it all lies in knowing "what" and "how"—and these he tells.

The book has obviously been written for the benefit of him—or her—who discovers that too frequent indulgence in eating and drinking has undermined the constitution and that it is time to stop, yet whose will power and everything else have proved of no avail in the endeavor to get free of the craving.

The book has something to say and says it well.

SMALL BOY KILLS TWO HUNDRED FLIES

First Batch of the Pests Brought to Civic League Saturday—Campaign Is Started.

In spite of the cold, unseasonable weather, two hundred unwary flies expecting to find a warm welcome in this hospitable city, were cruelly disappointed when they were trapped by an eager, small boy and carried to the waiting member of the Civic League at the library on Saturday forenoon. By next week, if the weather warms up, many more may be expected to be lively, so the small citizens must get busy and be ready for them.

Others' "Best Selves."

We all find a good deal of comfort in thinking of our best selves. If we thought very much about our worst selves we should be pretty miserable. Such thinking as we do about "worst selves" is usually about the worst selves of other people. And our consciousness of the worst selves of other people usually corresponds with our power to bring out those worst selves.—John D. Barry.

Little Mary's Suggestion.

Her father took Mary out for a walk one day in the country. They passed a pasture where some bulls were enclosed. The bulls were bellowing, and Mary's father attempted an imitation of it, to the great amusement of Mary, who finally said, after many encores had been rendered for her benefit, "Daddy, wouldn't it be a good joke if we were to hide behind a tree, and when people came, by you would use your voice and frighten them."

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

—By—
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am going to visit a half-sister next month whom I love as my own. There is a woman living near her who has been terribly mistreated and abused her. My sister is a good Christian girl and has many friends while this woman is almost friendless from what she has done. Her own mother won't even go to see her. She is not related to me at all, but she is related to my stepfather by marriage. She considers herself a relative. I haven't seen this woman for seventeen years, not since I was a small child. At that time her husband was good to me and seemed to like me very well. But he, too, has mistreated my sister. There are many other whom I haven't seen for years and I will be very glad to see them, for they have been kind to us.

Would it be wrong to openly show partiality? I don't want to appear rude or ill-mannered, but I don't want to be deceitful and pretend to like her when she has wronged my sister. Please tell me how to treat her when I meet her again.

CONSCIENCE.
If the woman has been unkind to your sister it is the result of bitterness of heart. She cannot be entirely responsible for this and should be pitied rather than condemned. If she has very few friends she must be lonely and unhappy and will appreciate kindness on your part. To treat the woman coldly would put you on her level, while to forgive her would be broad and fine. By all means treat her as kindly as you can. Much may be gained if you do, while you gain nothing in the other way. It would mean a great deal to you, I should think, to leave feeling that an unfortunate woman who is almost friendless found something in you to like.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl fifteen years old. I have flirted a little with a young man whom I do not know very well. I did not know I was flirting until I was told. I have worried over this because I do not want people to think I am that kind of a girl, for I am not. How may I again gain this young man's respect? In the future do nothing that will lower your self-respect and doubtless you will command the respect of others. If you are modest you may find that you like him. I change his opinion of you. A girl who flirts is disgusting and can't keep friends any length of time. This doesn't mean that you are not to be friendly with boys with whom you are well acquainted.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a boy twenty-two years old and am very much in love with a girl two years younger than myself. Soon I am going to another town to work and although I am not in a position to marry I should like to ask her to marry me because I am afraid that if I do not she may marry someone else. Do you think I am too young to become engaged?

BOB.
A boy of twenty-two has not the same taste that a girl will have at twenty-five. Wait until you are able to marry before you ask a girl to become your wife. By that time you may find that you like an entirely different type of girl. You will meet many new people where you go and the chances are that you would find it distasteful to be tied down because of an engagement.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-three years old and very much in love with a young man who comes to see me, but who does not show by his actions that he is any more than interested in me. What can I do to make him express his intentions? He is twenty-five years old and has a good position. I am certain.

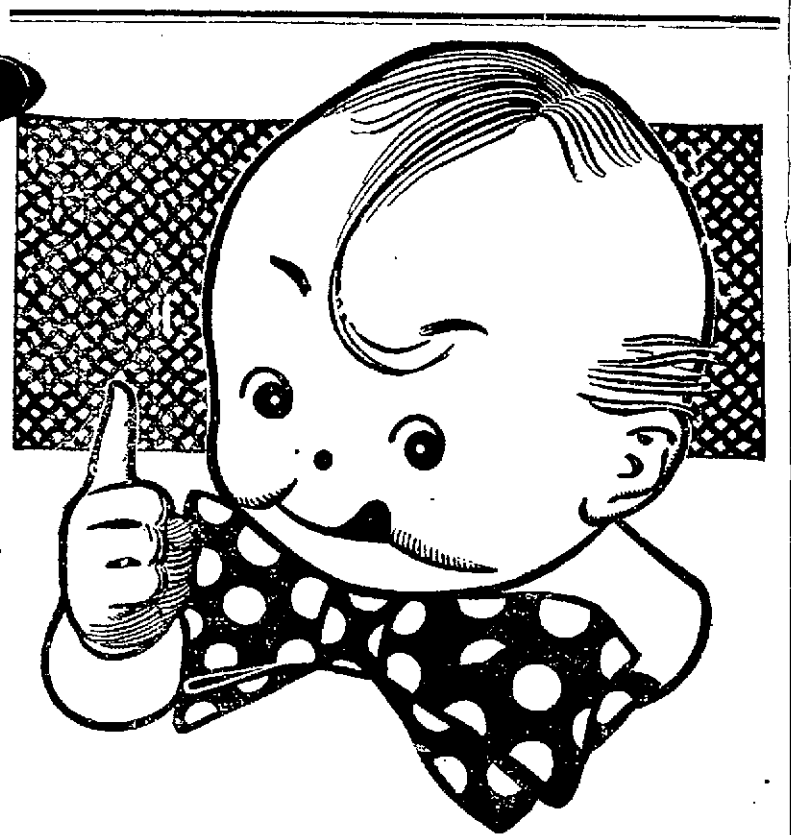

Anything you could do to draw the man out about the state of his feelings for you might compromise you in his eyes. Let him take his time to express himself. It ought to be some comfort to know that the man you love is interested in you.

Doctors nowadays never hesitate to look a private patient in the mouth. In many instances it is an adventure indeed. But then, the practice of medicine is just one adventure after another anyway. years anyhow. But competent dentists assure us, if we need assurance, that it is highly important to keep the primary teeth in the best possible condition, by dentistry when necessary, in order to preserve a normal soil for the development and eruption of the permanent teeth.

And we can assure the dentists that unless the primary or baby teeth are kept clean and sound by careful mouth hygiene or intelligent dentistry, the child is much more susceptible to scrofula (tuberculosis of neck glands) and, later in life, consumption.

Decayed primary teeth have a great deal to do with diseased tonsils and adenoids in children. Dentists and physicians agree that antiseptic tooth-pastes or powders are not generally desirable, but should be prescribed only in certain cases requiring an antiseptic. Mouth and tooth cleanliness requires no antiseptic applications. Indeed, antiseptics promiscuously employed may ultimately do more harm by injuring the mucous lining of the mouth and thus opening portals of infection.

Plain soap and water on the toothbrush seems as cautious and agreeable as anything for cleansing the teeth, but if the taste of soap is obnoxious there are good tooth-pastes and powders which are feebly or not at all antiseptic.

A clean mouth is a sort of blanket insurance policy against disease, particularly in children. Parents can do no greater service to a sickly or unhealthy child than to have any cavities in the teeth properly treated by a careful dentist.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

What effect has the tea made from chamomile flowers upon the system? Answer—Grandma had great faith in chamomile tea as an appetizer, a stimulant for the particular line of alimentary tube, and given in a warm enema as a first-rate remedy for colic in babies. We think grandma was right.

Hard Water Good for Gallstones? Answer—You think that drinking hard water is favorable to the formation of gallstones?

Answer—Categorically, no. It is not. Drink it however hard, if you would ward off gallstones.

Calcium Salts in the Body Answer—To our knowledge there is no such condition recognized. It is a theory some have invented to create a demand for his particular line of pills. In rickets there is a defective metabolism of lime salts, but no particular food or medicine can alter the proportion of calcium in the body. Quotation to the contrary will not stand verification, you will find. Chocolate candy is O. K.

Household Hints

HOUSECLEANING HELPS
To remove dirt from windows, use a little kerosene and soap mixed.

To clean white woodwork and cement in kitchen or bathroom, use baking soda freely instead of soap. It makes it beautifully clean and does not take the gloss off as soap would.

To Clean Window Shades—Duplex shades: Take shades from brackets and lay flat length on floor. Take plenty of white soap and cornmeal and a small stiff brush, do all over the shade. Rinse small piece of shade at a time with clean water. Holland or linen shades require a good wide squeegee, as they are not so porous as the duplex. Care should be taken to spread papers on the floor first. Your curtains will look like new after they are done.

Wallpaper Cleaner—Take four tablespoons pastry flour, four tablespoons salt, half teaspoon coal oil and just enough water to make a stiff dough. Put on fire and stir until it gets sort of tough, then work with hands for a few minutes. This is enough to clean a good-sized room and it will never stick to the paper.

HOME REMEDIES
Chestnut Leaves Cough Syrup—Put five-cent package chestnut leaves in one quart water, boil down one-third, then strain and add one pound dark brown sugar, boil till one pint remains; let cool. Dose: One teaspoon every hour—offener in severe cases.

FOR THE KIDDIES.
Unique Idea for Quilt for Child's Bed—Buy three or four linen fast-color picture books. Take the leaves of them apart and sew together in block fashion with alternating squares of white muslin, the same size as picture squares.

Decayed flowers may be restored by dipping them in very hot water half way up the stems, then lay them by until the water cools. The portions of the stems which have been immersed must be cut off and the flowers placed in clean cold water.

THE TABLE
Baked Ham in Cider—Select ham weighing about nine pounds. Soak it over night in sufficient cold water to cover it. Put in a large kettle add two small white onions, one sliced carrot, half a nutmeg, two sticks cinnamon, one tablespoon whole cloves, half a vinegar barrel, wash about two hours and a half, allowing the water to only simmer. Then remove the skin and place ham in a deep dish with the cider. Bake in moderate oven, basting frequently with the cider. When it is cooked, drain off cider, roll in bread crumbs and set in a very hot oven until it is a rich golden brown.

Estimated Eggs—Boil eight eggs twenty minutes. Crumble half of small loaf of bread. Put four cups milk, three tablespoons butter and several sprigs of parsley in a pan and heat. When hot, thicken with heaping tablespoon flour. Put into buttered baking dish.

Marrying a Butterfly

A Youth About to Marry Does Not Care for Wholesale Parental Advice.

"It's this way, mother; the position that the Scott-Frazier Co. have offered me is a very flattering one. They have opened up a new department in their business and have offered me the management of it. The initial salary is good, and if the new department pays I shall of course get a bigger salary. The business grows. It looks good to me, and I feel that I can make it pay. I am sure of it."

Ralph Gordon walked up and down the living room with his hands in his pockets. His mother followed him with a loving glance, filled with pride. His head was thrown back and the light of triumph shone in his eyes. He had made her feel sure that he could bend the circumstances of his life to his purposes. She realized that it was not necessary for her to answer. In fact, the matter was only half decided by her presence.

"I shall go on at once and try the thing out, and if all is satisfactory and I get a long term contract, I can marry the mother of the future."

"You are young yet, Ralph," she ventured. "I would be in no hurry. A man cannot make much headway financially nowadays after he is married. Get a good start before you venture on that sea."

"A start! Well, I should say I would have a start. I shall be earning a good round salary. More than the majority of men at forty are getting," replied the son.

"I mean a bank account; a sum to fall back on in emergency," Mrs. Gordon was conciliatory.

"You and father started without anything ahead, and his salary was nothing to brag of either. I have heard you say so. Ralph stopped in front of his mother with the air of one who has put forth an unanswerable argument.

"That is true," answered his mother quietly, "by my training had been very different. He had been brought up to work, to assume some responsibility. She was not. A wife who has been a butterfly cannot help a man to succeed. He must succeed on his own merits. Mrs. Gordon did not look at her son. She knew any criticism of Ethel Mergate would provoke a storm.

"Let's not open that old subject," Ralph exclaimed petulantly. "You are so old-fashioned. You seem to think that a man marries a woman for what she can do. I can hire housework done and sewing done. I am not marrying a seamstress or a housekeeper. I can earn enough money to allow my wife to be free from all such drudgery." Ralph had resumed his rapid march up and down the room.

"Therefore, there is need of a reserve fund for emergency, as I said before," replied his mother quickly. "Do be advised in this matter. Both of you are young."

"Mother, I am twenty-five and Ethel is twenty-two. I surely think we are old enough to know what we are doing. You act always as if I were a babe in arms. It is impossible for you to realize that I am grown up."

"Perhaps I might find it easier to realize it if you could outgrow the very youthful impatience to any opposition to your wishes." She looked steadily at him as she spoke. "The time will come when you will realize that your mother has only your best interests at heart and that she finds it hard to see you making what in her opinion must be his own life and learn by his own experience." Ralph stooped and kissed his mother's cheek.

"I guess that is so," she sighed, smiling into his face.

SOME OPINIONS.
"Does it pay?"
"Yes, it does pay to pay one's bills because the creditors profit by the action. But does it pay for a girl-for instance—to behave respectably? I go into an eating house and sit and eat my dinner quietly because I have to eat in order to live. Others spend every cent they have—and haven't on pretty clothes, manure, hairdressing, etc., and flirt with every man in the place. They are getting a lot of fun out of their dinner. They are liked and petted and helped everywhere. I am respectable—and humdrum. Nobody cares a hang for me!"

"I wonder what Molly and the Cynic The Lady-Who-Always-Knows-Somewhat have to say to that?"

So writes a letter friend. "But They Don't Marry Her." I showed the letter to the Cynic. He said:

"Yes, I know what she means. 'They' certainly seems to be an attraction about the girl who has a reputation for being a little bit fast. Men always flock about her. But," he finished, "they don't marry her."

He showed the letter to the Lady-Who-Always-Knows-Somewhat.

"Poor child," she said. "She's probably in one of those dreadful black moods that we sometimes have, especially when we are young and don't realize that things never stay so black. I wish she had signed the letter, so I could write to her and tell her that it does pay. You have your self-respect and that's the biggest thing in the world—though you sometimes lack perspective and think it isn't. Some day she'll meet the right man and then she'll be so glad she didn't flirt with every man in the place."

I wonder What He Meant? I showed the letter to the Author-mam.

"If I say," he said, "that reminds me of a quotation." And he whipped out his bill-finder, that he keeps full of his latest finds, and read:

"To withstand steadfastly the allurements of life, yet pass no censure."

What Molly Thought.
Lastly, I showed the letter to Molly.

She pondered upon it. "It is hard," she said finally, "to see silly overdone, selfish girls getting all the fun and admiration, but—"

"But what?" said I.
"But don't you think that sometimes a girl blames her lack of popularity on the fact that she is straight when it really is just because she isn't bright and amusing, because she lacks life and charm?"

"That might well be so," said I.
"So now my letter friend need wonder no longer what Molly and I think about this matter."

FIND MANY LAW VIOLATIONS ON RECENT INSPECTION
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., May 1.—Recent inspections by deputies of the state board of health have resulted in discovering carriers of dangerous communicable diseases in places closely connected with the wants of the consuming public. Deputy state health officers have located tuberculosis persons working in creameries which supply milk, cream and butter to stores, hotels, hospitals and homes. The hotel inspectors have also found numerous persons suffering from communicable diseases in hotel and restaurant service, where the danger of conveying infection to guests is especially marked. The inspectors make it their business to cause the dismissal of such employees in the interest of the public health. The state rules governing barber shops prohibit the employment of persons having a communicable skin disease or a venereal disease as barbers. Such cases are rapidly becoming less.

TO SPEAK IN BELOIT ON WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE TOPIC
Mrs. Pankhurst, the former English suffrage leader and foremost exponent of the cause of votes for women in the English Isles, is to speak in Beloit on May 15th, under the auspices of the Beloit branch of the A. C. A. Many Janesville residents will doubtless attend the lecture.

Of all the campaign lies, 'I'll be home ever' night after the election, dear, is the worst. A warman is all the average American needs to make him take a chance.

His Secret Died With Him.
One man gave up his life in the search for a new explosive a few years ago. He was a scientist named Wartenberger. He had spent years of his life in the midst of awful perils in search of a new explosive. He found one at last which the experiments of the United States government experts satisfied them was even more powerful than dynamite. The government offered Wartenberger $1,000,000 for his invention, provided he could perfect a method of firing the fearful stuff by means of electricity instead of a fuse. While he was engaged in these experiments an explosion occurred which killed the unfortunate inventor.—San Francisco Chronicle.

No Candies That Evening.
A friend calls at the house twice a week and always brings my little sister, Mildred, a box of chocolates. Recently he left town, unknown to her, and of course she waited for him just as usual when Wednesday evening came. After waiting in the parlor for fifteen minutes she said: "I deem my chocolate man isn't coming tonight."—Exchange.

Report.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, May 1.—Organized labor received more in the year ending with May 1 in increased wages, shorter hours and legislation than ever before in its history, according to officials of the American Federation of Labor. Wage advances were general the country over in virtually every line of industry and laws benefiting labor were put on the statute books of every state in the union except five.
Wage increases were greatest in the metal trades, many of which were stimulated by war orders. Cotton manufacturing was the only main industry which did not grant substantial increases. The metal trades, too, claimed the greatest number of strikes during the year, though many plants increased the pay of their men and cut working hours voluntarily.
One benefit brought by the industrial revival which labor officials consider as important as increases in wages was the effects on unemployment, which has disappeared within the past year. Statistics just completed by the Department of Labor show that men of all trades have been called in to work. Iron and steel mills have on their payrolls now thirty-six per cent more than were employed a year ago and the car building and repairing industry has increased its forces by about the same percentage. Manufacturers of boots and shoes are employing twenty per cent more men than this time last year.

Decided Increase.
Wage increases during the year have ranged from five to fifteen per cent. No statistics have been compiled by either the Department of Labor or the American Federation of Labor, but reports coming in to both tell of what is being accomplished in manufacturing plants in all parts of the country.

The Department of Labor puts the country's 1915 strikes at 1,500, about 300 more than the year before. About two-thirds of them were for wage increases or decreased working hours and most of them were successful. Munitions strikes starting in the summer of 1915 attracted much attention. Most of them were for shorter hours without pay increases. Shorter hours generally were obtained by the munitions workers, but where wages increased were asked the workers seldom got as much as they asked for.

Strikes in the clothing industry in Eastern cities involved a number of strikes, but their duration was comparatively short. A Middle Western clothing strike, in Chicago, however, lasted for three months and involved from 6,000 to 25,000 workers. Other strikes of importance during the year included the building trades strike in Chicago, which halted building in that city for a time; the oil and chemical strikes at Elizabeth, N. J., and neighboring cities and the Chicago street car strike. The Eastern Ohio coal strike was settled just a year ago.

Causes of Strikes.
The causes of strikes and lockouts were numerous. In a total of 1,206 strikes three hundred were for wage increases; 133 for a shorter working day; 90 because of wage cuts; 60 because of discharge of union men; 40 because of employment of non-union men and 20 for open or closed shop.
The most significant feature of the year's labor legislation is given by labor leaders as enactment of workmen's compensation laws. The growth of the industrial commission plan is considered of great importance also. This plan unites in one authority the administration of workmen's compensation, factory inspection and other labor laws. It was adopted during the year by Colorado, Indiana, Montana, Nevada and New York.

Unemployment received the attention of a number of legislatures. Illinois established a commission on employment; California and Nevada investigated unemployment conditions and Idaho provided emergency employment through county boards. Public employment officers were established by California, Idaho, Iowa, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Illinois, Michigan and Oklahoma extended their public employment systems. Seven states provided for employment offices supervising private employment offices.

Laws relating to the employment of women and children were passed by a number of states. Arkansas and Kansas enacted minimum wage laws and California, Massachusetts and Washington amended minimum wage laws already in force. Eleven states now have minimum wage legislation. Arkansas and Pennsylvania passed child labor legislation during the year.

In the field of safety provision the most detailed enactments were those formulated by the Industrial Commission of Wisconsin and the industrial commission of New York and Pennsylvania. The seamen's act, the Alaska and Arizona old age pension laws and California's appointment of a commission to report on social insurance were other important enactments.

WARNS FARMERS AGAINST CURE-ALL FOR GRAIN SMUT

"Look out for patent anti-smut solution!"

This warning has been given by the state seed inspection service. Another clever manipulator has entered the ring to "gold brick" the farmer with a new and wonderful cure-all, this time to prevent all kinds of smut in grains.

Recently samples of the "anti-smut solution" were placed on sale in a Wisconsin community at $2 for a pint bottle. Upon investigation the "discovery" was found to be nothing else than formaldehyde, disguised under a new label and turned to account at five times the "war time" prices.

Milton Junction News

Milton Junction, May 1.—Rev. Hilburne of Union Grove gave a very interesting lecture on "The Land of the Pharaohs" at the M. E. church Saturday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. Excellent music was furnished by members of the Sunday school department. The ladies cleared a neat sum.

Miss Hilda Hanson entertained the mothers of her domestic science class at the school building Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Chambers entertained Messrs. and Mesdames I. P. Hinkley and son Clarence, J. A. Baker and son Corliss, W. H. Gates and F. M. Warner and their guest, Mrs. F. Warner of Randolph at dinner on Sunday.

Mrs. William Kemmerling of Janesville spent Saturday with her mother, Mrs. C. H. Osborn.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Osborn, South Dakota is visiting his sister, Mrs. B. P. Roby.

Mrs. J. H. Strassburg and children spent Saturday with Port Atkinson relatives.

Mrs. M. Roberts and daughter, Miss Beatrice, and son Willard, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Van Wageningen at Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hudson spent Saturday with Mrs. Emma Hicks at Janesville.

Mrs. George Buten is spending the week with her daughter, Mrs. C. A. Miller, at Grays Lake, Ind.

Orfordville News

April 30, 1916.—Dan Mowe came out from Chicago on Saturday morning and spent the day with friends here, returning to the city on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Carrie Liston is enjoying a visit from her daughter, from near Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Naugle and Mrs. Carpenter were visitors in the village on Saturday. They were guests at the home of Mrs. Jane Compton.

The regular meeting of the Young Peoples Society of the Lutheran Church met at the church parlors on Friday evening. A very interesting and amusing program was rendered. Refreshments were served and a most excellent time is reported.

Many of the citizens of Orfordville were interested spectators at the phenomena that appeared in the sky on Friday evening. It is seldom that there is so brilliant a display of Northern Lights at this season of the year. Noel Heggard, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Chas. Heggard, had been complaining for several days of a severe pain in one of his elbows. A doctor was called on Friday and suggested that the lad be taken to Janesville and have an X-ray picture taken of the troublesome member. The photo showed that the cap of the elbow was cracked and opened sufficiently to admit of infection. The boy could not tell of any time when he was hurt nor of the first time when he noticed the soreness. Radical treatment was applied and the patient seems to be doing well.

MUCH ROAD BUILDING TO BE DONE IN STATE DURING THIS SUMMER

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., May 1.—During the next twelve months Wisconsin will see greater activity in road building than at any other period in the state's history, according to figures on file in the office of the tax commission and the highway commission.

A total of more than $4,500,000 will be spent according to present indications. Reports have already been received of funds appropriated by towns at the election on April 4 which total about $1,500,000 and it is expected more will be heard from. Under the state law counties in which the towns are located and the state are required to appropriate an amount equal to that provided by the cities.

Of the seventy-one counties in the state fifty are under the regular provisions of the law and the remainder are under the county system. In the fifty counties, 435 towns out of a total of 882 have reported that they have appropriated $410,000. In these same counties records show that in 1915 taxes were voted on $18 per cent of the towns and the average appropriation was more than $800; in 1915, 72.2 per cent voted an average of more than $1,000; in 1914, 39.1 per cent voted an average of $1,079.

One of the projects which it is planned to carry out this year which is attracting considerable attention is the beautifying of the road from Green Bay to De Pere. Shade trees will be planted along the entire route. Fences will be covered with vines and shrubbery. American elms will be used almost exclusively. About 1,000 trees will be needed.

WILL RUSH CONSTRUCTION OF ALASKAN INLAND RAILROAD.

Seward, Alaska, May 1.—The Alaskan Engineering Commission is preparing to push work this summer on the government railroad from this port to the great coal fields of the Matanuska River.

The work of this summer will be divided into three sections; the first to be the reconstruction of the old Alaskan Northern line from Seward to Mile 71 on Kana Creek. The second section will be new work on Turnagain Arm from Mile 71 to Anchorage, and the third will be the completion of the line from Anchorage to Chickaloon Creek, in the mid section of the Matanuska coal deposits which has been found best for naval purposes.

In addition to this work, the Commission will extend the main line of the Seward-Fairbanks Railroad, which in reality is a separate project from the canal road, in the Talkeetna Forks of the Susitna River.

Active work on the Alaskan Northern reconstruction has already commenced, nearly a month ahead of the season, so urgent is the emergency under which this project is being rushed to completion. Five feet of frost is in the ground and at Resurrection the bridge-builders are thawing down with steam plants, after the manner of placer miners, to drive piling for the bridge.

MUST PROTECT INFANTS TO KEEP EMPIRE TOGETHER.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
London, May 1.—"If the British Empire is to be kept together, infant life must be preserved." This note of warning from the head of the Birmingham Maternity Hospital in connection with this statement that "as a result of the war there were between 4,000 and 5,000 fewer babies in Birmingham last year" has been re-echoed by the newspapers and the clergy throughout the country. Attention of English men is again called to the fact that the birth-rate has fallen to the lowest figures on record and that at the same time the infant mortality rate is going up.

men shortage greater than any England has known in its history is threatening the country, says the London Times medical correspondent who proceeds to compare the conditions here with those in Germany, where he adds "owing to the far-sightedness of the Germans the population jumped from 42,000,000 in 1875 to 60,000,000 in 1905."

"The world at this hour is having an object lesson in the meaning of birth statistics," continues the correspondent. "The Germans swelled their total population not only by births, but also by the prevention of infant death, which is one of the greatest tasks standing to the credit of a scientific people."

"As a people we must set our house in order lest in the days to come we find it tenanted, and so become a prey to foes who have shown a wiser foresight and a truer appreciation of values than ourselves. No sane man knowing the facts, can doubt that our whole national future is in jeopardy."

INTERURBAN RAILROAD TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Racine, Wis., May 1.—"How much am I bid for this interurban line?"

This was the cry of an auctioneer as he stood on the front steps of the Racine county court house this afternoon at the sale of the Wisconsin property of the Chicago & Milwaukee Electric railway which has been in the hands of the receivers.

The property was scheduled to be sold on April 1 but as the receiver was not prepared to go ahead with the sale at that time it was postponed for a month.

Holders of the bonds in the bankrupt company have been anxious to regain possession of the line. Agents of the company have cleaned up delinquent taxes and all other matters in order to give a clear title to the purchasers. The Illinois property of the company will be sold at Wekegan.

If you have a rug, a couch or any other article of household furniture to get rid of, use a Gazette want ad. It will surely sell it.
